CRISIS BREAKS OVER BULGARIA

SOFIA, Feb. 28 (AP)—A cordon of police was thrown about this Bulgarian capital last night, making it impossible for anyone to leave the city, and telephone communication, internal and international, was suspended mysteriously for nearly 23 hours.

No authentic reports could be received from the frontiers.

The British legation was packed for a quick attempt to get out of the country ahead of any invasion of Nazi troops.

There are some 600,000 German soldiers in Rumania, to the north, and many on the Danube frontier with Bulgaria.

Diplomatic dispatches reaching Belgrade, Yugoslavia, today told of a mass movement of German troops in battle uniform through Bucharest, the Rumanian capital, which is less than 50 miles from the border. All Bucharest's main streets were reported reserved for the German military, with business at a standstill. There was no indication, however, what direction the troops were taking.—Editor's Note.

All diplomatic missions, including the United States legation, were cut off from any kind of communication.

Unofficial reports said King Boris was closeted in his palace, refusing to see his own ministers. Attempts to obtain any word from the palace of what was going on proved fruitless.

Shortly after dawn, secret police raided the homes of 10 or more Bulgarian journalists, oil men and others, seeking incriminating documents; then all were arrested.

They were described as "men with British connections."

All those arrested were sent immediately to a newly-established concentration camp in the provinces.

Among them were Michael Padoff, correspondent of the Times of London; Christopher Janoff, Chicago Daily News correspondent; the nephew of a famous Macedonian leader, Pudar Alexandroff; Peter Radoff, official of an oil company, which partly American owned, and two officials of the British press service.

At nightfall, secret police were reported to be rounding up many others.

Communications ceased at 8 p. m. Thursday and were not restored until the single line was opened to Belgrade at 6:45 p. m. today.

NIGHTSTICKS SWING IN STEEL STRIKE—Policemen's nightsticks break a path for "loyal" workers of the Lackawanna steel plant as shift changes in Buffalo. Federal government intervened today and CIO voted to accept government's peace proposition. Plant's parent concern, the Bethlehem Steel Corp., has $1,500,000,000 worth of national defense contracts.

WHEELER BITTER, BLASTS AID BILL IN CLIMAX OF FOES' ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Montana's Burton K. Wheeler, implacable foe of the British aid bill since the day of its introduction, denounced it unsparingly today as legislation which would "strip us of our defenses, invite the Ch. of Executive to declare war and create a dictatorship."

It was a hammer-and-tongs attack, with larded flings at the President, at Wendell L. Willkie, "international bankers," "court satellites," and "nameless ghost writers" whom he aligned behind the bill.

Sen. Wheeler, a Democrat, omitted any reference to President Roosevelt's assertion of last night that the administration "confidently" anticipated early enactment of the lease-lend program as an "important factor" in hemisphere defense.

URGES PASSAGE

Mr. Roosevelt, in a radio broadcast to the motion picture awards dinner in Hollywood, declared that the United States' defense "involves the defense of all the democracies of all the Americas—and therefore in fact, it involves the future of democracy wherever it is imperiled by force or terror."

Wheeler, in the four-hour address he prepared for the Senate floor, sharply disputed claims that the bill would help further the interests of national defense, and proclaimed anew that he would battle it to the last, regardless.

The opposition, he insisted, was speaking "for the overwhelming majority of Americans," who demand to be told "whether the forgotten man of 1932 is destined to be the unknown soldier of 1942."

Should the bill become law, said he, the constitutional power of Congress to make war would be made a "tragic joke."

As the Montanan analyzed the legislation, it would empower the President to aid any country he wished, even Latin-American nations in their continental controversies, "or in their internal revolutions."

Nor was that all. He contended the President would have authority to do any of these things:

"Attempt to set up an NRA of the universe, or a world-wide super-barter system, taking over the surplus farm products of South America."

"Seize German, Italian or Japanese merchant ships in our harbors."

"Send American merchant ves-

Steel Strike Ends In Big Bethlehem Defense Factory

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—CIO workers at Bethlehem Steel's plant in suburban Lackawanna ended their two-day strike today after unanimously approving a government-drafted formula for settlement.

Their action came after they were told by a union leader at a mass meeting the agreement is "100 per cent in our favor."

The cheering employees immediately left their seats, paraded and danced in crowded Memorial hall.

Earlier, Van A. Bittner, Steel Workers' organizing committee director, said the company and union officials had agreed to ratify a three-point program submitted by President Roosevelt's Office of Production Management to end the strike.

3-POINT PLAN

Company officials, however, declined comment on Bittner's assertion.

The program, signed by William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, director and associate director of the OPM, asked both union and company to agree that:

1.—All employees of the plant be reinstated as soon as resumption of operations will permit.

2.—A conference be held to seek adjustment of differences.

3.—The OPM "explore" with the Labor Board the possibility of holding an election to determine a bargaining agent.

The strike started at 9 p. m. Tuesday and was marked by sporadic outbreaks of violence.

Bittner, in charge of organizing employees in Bethlehem's mills, working on $1,500,000,000 in defense contracts, said the employees would return to work immediately.

CALLED GREAT VICTORY

The union had asked for a collective bargaining election, an immediate conference to settle grievances and reinstatement of workers who had been "indefinitely suspended" by the company. An earlier demand was for a 25 per cent wage boost.

John V. Riffe, assistant to Bittner, told the enthusiastic workers:

"We are here to celebrate the greatest victory that has ever been won in the history of the labor movement in this or any country."

Bittner said the government did "not believe we could close the plant, but we did." Riffe termed the settlement "100 per cent in our favor."

"Use American naval vessels for convoys of either belligerent or American merchant ships," Wheeler said "the overwhelming

France Silent as Jap Ultimatum Expires

TOKYO, March 1 (Saturday) (AP)—Japan's ultimatum to the French that they agree to yield to Thailand large areas of the Indo-China provinces of Cambodia and Laos or suffer "forceful action" by Japanese armed forces expired at midnight Friday without a reply.

Authoritative sources said the Japanese foreign office was planning an extraordinary conference of key officials later today to which Indo-Chinese peace conference delegates would be invited for an explanation of why the French have not replied.

The nature of future Japanese action will depend upon an analysis of the French explanation, it was stated. Japanese foreign office attaches had waited up until midnight, although it had been apparent by mid-evening that the French were not going to meet the ultimatum deadline.

These were signs of the seriousness with which Japan watched the outcome of this first test of her East Asian leadership since the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance allied her a sphere of influence in "greater East Asia."

A spokesman for the Japanese Cabinet shortly before midnight declined to speculate on prospective Japanese action, saying:

"That is too delicate a question."

As previously expressed by a re-

Alfonso of Spain Dies in Rome Hotel

ROME, Feb. 28 (AP)—Alfonso XIII, 54-year-old former monarch of Spain, died today in the hotel room which had been his home for a decade.

He suffered a series of heart attacks beginning on Feb. 13 and had been sitting in a chair for the last seven days, too weak to be placed in bed. His mind lucid, and he was cheerful until the last.

At his side when he died were his Queen, Victoria, from whom he had been estranged for many years; his son and designated heir to the Spanish throne, Don Juan; another son, Don Jaime; a daughter, Beatrice; three doctors, and a Spanish Jesuit priest, Padre Ulpiano Lopez, who administered the last rites of the Catholic Church when death seemed inevitable Feb. 22.

Another daughter, Maria Cristina, was summoned from Turin but was unable to reach Rome. She is expecting a child.

The padre administered the last sacrament of Extreme Unction for a second time this morning. The sacrament was administered last Ginger Rogers and James Stewart are their names. They are the newest winners of the awards signifying best, which are given annually by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Ginger was better than any of her acting sisters in 1940, her fellows believe, because of her portrayal in "Kitty Foyle."

And Stewart impressed them by his work in "The Philadelphia Story."

AWARDED HONOR

They, as well as a score of others, were called to the podium of a banquet hall jammed with celebrities and fellow workers last night to be handed statuettes a foot high which have been dubbed Oscars.

"Rebecca" was the year's best motion picture, in the opinion of the Academy's 12,000 voters. The award for the best performance by a supporting actor went to Walter Brennan, who played Judge Bean in "The Westerner." It was old stuff for him—he won in 1936 for "Come and Get It" and in 1933 for "Kentucky."

Jane Darwell was voted the best supporting actress for her characterization of Ma Joad in "The Grapes of Wrath."

The director of "The Grapes," John Ford, won the directorial award. He also won in 1935 for "The Informer."

This, the 13th annual Awards party, was highlighted by a radio address by President Roosevelt from the White House directed to the motion picture industry. He said he wanted to place emphasis on the service you can render in promoting solidarity among all the peoples of the Americas, and thanked the industry for its support of the defense program.

Miss Rogers, who was a song and dance girl during her early movie days, has taken slow but certain steps toward the histrionic heights she reached in "Kitty Foyle." Becoming a dramatic star was no cinch, either. She is known as one of the hardest workers in town, and she has little time for play. Her real name is Virginia McMath, and she was born in Independence, Mo., 30 years ago come next July, but she was reared in Fort Worth, Tex.

ACE COMES UP

Under contract for months to M-G-M. studio, Stewart wandered around the lot hoping he'd impress some director. He impressed them—but not in the right way.

They thought he was too lanky. That his face was too long; that his lower lip was too prominent. But in one small role he clicked and his personality has been registering since. The ace came up.

The red-haired and vivacious Ginger was competing against some of the movies' best talent, including Bette Davis, who has won two awards, and Katharine Hepburn, a one-time winner. Bette was nominated for "The Letter" and Hepburn for "The Philadelphia Story." Also named were Martha Scott for "Our Town" and Joan Fontaine for "Rebecca."

Stewart's competitors were Charlie Chaplin, "The Great Dictator," Raymond Massey, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," Henry Fonda, "The Grapes of Wrath," and Laurence Olivier, "Rebecca."

FINDS HUSBAND DEAD

Herbert F. Shannon, 51, Bedford st., Lexington, market gardener, was found dead in his bed today

SEEMS
Mylady Clifford of Lowell missed a train and caught a husband . . . in Gibson, Mo. Story was told in Middlesex court, where she is asking an annulment of her marriage to Jack Clifford of Rector, Ark. As the court heard it, she and her sister were leaving for home and missed a train. There was Jack. He bought drinks. She woke up . . . married.

Bride Tells Surprise Learning She'd Wed

This is what happens when one misses a train, sighed delectable, 22-year-old Mrs. Mylady Clifford in Middlesex Probate Court today.

With a twist of her neat brunette head and a pursing of her pretty lips, young Mrs. Clifford admitted that on May 17 when she left her parents' home in Gibson, Mo., to catch a train back to her own home in Adams st., Lowell, she had no idea what was going to happen.

She had no idea that on the way to the railroad station she and her sister were going to run into a nifty young fellow named Jack Clifford whom neither of them had ever seen before in their lives.

FINDS SELF WEDDED

And she had even less idea that, having missed her train at 10 p. m., she would wake up the next morning in a strange house in a strange town with a strange woman seething over her—and find that she was married to that same Jack Clifford who, up to that time, also had been a stranger.

She testified:
"Your honor, I had left my parents' home and was on my way to catch my train back to Lowell—my sister was seeing me off—when we met this Clifford fellow."

"He suggested, after a little while, that we should celebrate my leaving. So we did. We had a drink or two, and that led to another, and that in turn led to three or four more. So we had a few drinks."

HER ROSY GLOW

After that, she testified, all that happened into a sort of rosy glow.

"All I remember is getting into an auto with my sister and Clifford—he was driving—and going over to a strange town I later found was Carruthersville, and driving up to a big house," she said.

"The next thing I knew it was 10 o'clock in the morning and Jack Clifford's aunt was sleeping my face and Jack Clifford was standing behind her calling me names and telling me we were married. He showed me the license."

"So I got my things, and found my sister, and then I did catch a train for Lowell."

WIFE IN NAME ONLY

She testified the marriage had never been consummated.

Mrs. Clifford is suing for annulment of her marriage to Clifford, who is now of Rector, Ark., on the ground that she was under the influence of liquor when the marriage was contracted.

"We had a lot of whiskey and beer," she admitted ruefully. "I don't remember going to a registry or anything."

Judge John C. Leggat held up the case pending submission of further records by Mrs. Clifford's sis-

CRASH KILLS VIOLINIST IN KAY'S BAND

WESTBORO, Feb. 28—Neil Shadon, 20-year-old bass violinist in Herbie Kay's orchestra, was instantly killed today in an automobile crash on the Boston Turnpike near here.

Two companions, George Hulme, assistant manager of the band, and Robert Ballinger, saxophonist, were slightly injured.

According to police, the musicians were in a beach wagon which collided with the rear of a truckload of cucumbers on the way to Boston. Hulme was driving the beach wagon. The truck was operated by Charles F. Morris, employed by the J. W. Davis Co. of Terre Haute, Ind.

Herbie Kay, whose legal name is Herbert Powers Kaumeyer, was at the Staller Hotel in Boston when he learned of the tragedy.

He is the ex-husband of Dorothy Latham, "Singing Girl." Divorced in 1939, he married an oil millionaire's heiress, Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Rinehart of Tulsa, Okla.

Truck Crash Fatal To Weston Father

Richard W. Travis, of Weston, 26, father of three girls, died at Waltham Hospital today of injuries received when a beach wagon he was driving crashed into the rear end of a parked truck on the Boston post road a week ago.

His wife Helen, 27, is also at the hospital undergoing treatment for internal injuries. She is expected to recover.

Kindness Reforms Dog That Had Turned Coyote

DENVER, Feb. 25 (AP)—Burly, a part German shepherd dog which became a ferocious sheep killer, has escaped a firing squad and is going to help teach school children to be kind to animals.

Burly, once a family pet, fell into bad ways—with a pack of coyotes. He became their leader on sheep-killing forays. Ranchers demanded his hide.

A posse of 500 men, with scores of dogs, tried to capture him. Burly outwitted them.

Finally, Burly tangled a foot in a fence trying to escape Lee Carney and Patrolman Frank Ulrich of Ft. Collins and was captured, but not until he had ripped Carney's glove off with his fangs.

Ranchers demanded he face a firing squad. Dog lovers pleaded he be given a chance. They won.

C. E. Faubel of Wheatridge, an animal educator who conducts a kindness-to-animals program before Denver school children, took Burly.

To the amazement of Burly's detractors, Faubel removed the dog's muzzle, substituted an ordinary dog collar, boosted him into the back seat of his car and drove here.

"I never knew he was in the car, he was so quiet," Faubel said.

8-Inch Snow, Gales Due in Hub Tonight

Greater Boston faces a six to eight-inch snowfall tonight, the local weather bureau predicted today as storm warnings were ordered hoisted along the New England coast by the Washington bureau.

Gales are accompanying the snow, with the highest velocity of the winds expected tonight.

All New England will feel the effects of the storm, according to the forecaster, with the heaviest snow in the eastern portion of Southern New England.

Shortly before noon, storm warnings were ordered from Block Island, R. I., to Portsmouth, N. H., and for later in the day from Portsmouth to Eastport, Me.

By morning the March-ushering storm is expected to be over, with a prediction of clearing and colder for Saturday.

The weather bureau's warning said:

"A disturbance 150 miles east of the Virginia capes will move between north and north-northeastward, causing strong to gale northeast to east winds, shifting to southeast on Cape Cod early tonight and by morning north-east of Portland, Me.

"Cape Cod winds will shift to westerly during the night and westerly east of Portland on Saturday.

"Between Portland and Boston and west of Vineyard Haven, the winds will back to northwest and west."

The path of the center of this disturbance is expected to be between Nantucket and Block Island and close to Portland.

9th Child Now At Bedside of Sick Mother

Her fondest hope realized, Mrs. Celia (Boyle) Casalou, 61, of Bow st., Arlington Heights, who was stricken Wednesday with a heart attack, today embraced the last of her nine children gathered at the family home.

By driving all night, Edward Casalou, 23, reached his mother's bedside early today, from Baltimore.

The Army, the Navy and the Red Cross combined to help two sons reach their mother. Plane transportation was furnished George T. Casalou who was given leave from duty with the 211th Regiment at Camp Hulen, Texas, and the Navy sped a sailor son, Francis, home from Newport, R. I., by car.

The youth was arrested in his home and questioned by Sergt. Chester Henney. He was then held on suspicion.

The arrest came even ahead of an order of Supt. of Police Edward W. Fallon to three Boston police station and two squads from detective headquarters:

"Drop everything and go out and get those men."

According to police, the girl was walking from school last night and at Ruggles and Washington sts. two Negroes grabbed her and pushed her into an alley where two others followed.

She told police they dragged her into a shack and attacked her, also stole 50 cents and a strip of cigarettes from her purse.

Police reveal that a complaint has been made by parents of another young Roxbury girl who was approached by a quartet of colored youths last night near the scene of the attack. The girl was forced to run into a restaurant to evade her followers.

$35,000 Fire Loss In Greater Boston

Two Somerville families were made homeless and a Wakefield building was destroyed by extra-alarm fires today, with losses reaching a total of $35,000.

Fragments of plate glass windows were hurled half way across Main st. as a heavy explosion gave the first warning of the Wakefield blaze, a general alarm fire which swept the Wakefield Supply Co. and a dress shop, in the center of the city.

Sgt. Walter Peterson, passing the structure in a Wakefield police car, heard the blast and sounded the alarm. He then ran to an adjoining two-family dwelling, already smoke-filled, and aroused the occupants, Edmund M. Devens, Mrs. Katherine Benjamin and her four-year-old daughter, Mary.

Dense smoke blanketed the business center and soon flames were shooting from all parts of the 100-foot roof of the building. Quantities of paint and oil fed the blaze, causing bursts of flame which threatened houses on nearby Center st.

Fire Chief Fred D. Graham ordered a general alarm as a precautionary measure and help responded from Melrose, Reading and Stoneham.

In Somerville, a spectacular blaze broke out in a large barn on Line st. and quickly spread to a two-story dwelling on Beacon st., forcing nine persons to flee. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Goffredo and family were driven from the first floor while the family of David Del Medico escaped from their second floor apartment.

Two alarms were sounded for the fire, the fourth within a week in the congested area on the Somerville-Cambridge line. Fire officials requested Somerville police in an investigation to determine the cause.

WINANT FLIES TOWARD BRITAIN TO TAKE UP NEW DUTIES AS AMBASSADOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—John G. Winant, new ambassador to Great Britain, was on the way to his post today following the departure of the ship from LaGuardia Airport, explaining in a prepared statement that he would "do my best to carry through that policy."

The envoy left aboard the Atlantic Clipper from LaGuardia Airport, explaining in a prepared statement that he would "do my best to carry through that policy."

He added that "whatever is done must depend on what the American people make possible in the weeks and months ahead."

We all know what England is doing; we recognize the gallantry, the sacrifice and the unity of her people."

Triple Probe in Air Tragedy is Planned

ATLANTA, Feb. 28 (AP)—Three independent groups arranged today to investigate the crash near here of Eastern Air Lines' almost-new, $120,000 air sleeper, which killed seven persons and injured nine, including Eddie Rickenbacker, famed World War pilot and president of the company.

The big ship, en route from New York, smashed into a pine woodland about midnight Wednesday as it swung several miles from the airport to come in for a landing.

Rickenbacker, who was last to be pulled from the wreckage when searchers found it at dawn yesterday, was reported "some better" early today by Piedmont Hospital attendants. He suffered a re-break of an old hip injury received in his auto racing days. Rickenbacker's physician gave him "better than an even chance" to recover.

Upon reaching the hospital, Rickenbacker said cheerfully, "Tell the boys I'll be out in three or four weeks." His wife drove from Charlotte, N. C., to be at his bedside.

H. A. Littledale, assistant managing editor of the New York Times, and C. M. Tappen, New York city oil company executive suffering from a fractured vertebrae, remained in a serious condition at a hospital.

The Civil Aeronautics Board began immediately a preliminary investigation, but inspectors said it would take two or three days to dismantle the motors and check other parts of the wreckage. G. Grant Mason, Jr., board member, and Air Safety Director Jerome Lederer planned a public hearing in Atlanta next week.

Sen. Clark (D.) of Missouri, head of a special Senate committee to investigate plane accidents, announced in Washington that his committee would conduct an inquiry next week.

Eastern Air Lines also began a study of the crash.

House Hears Demand For Air Crash Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (INS)—Demands for an investigation of the fatal air crash that caused the death of Rep. William D. Byron of Maryland near Atlanta, Ga., yesterday, were made today on the House floor.

Rep. Jennings Randolph (D.) of

Killed in Crash

West Virginia announced that he had introduced a resolution calling for the House Interstate Commerce Committee to make an investigation of the crash of the Eastern Airlines plane and the administration of the Civil Aeronautics Authority of the Commerce Department.

"Many individuals have been killed in the past six months in commercial aviation," Randolph told the House. "I'm not saying it is responsible, but since enactment of the reorganization bill there has been an increase in aircraft accidents."

Funeral Tomorrow For Daniel J. Kane

Funeral services for Daniel J. Kane, 66, of Monument sq., Charlestown, a former State representative, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's Church in Charlestown.

He was exalted ruler of the Boston Lodge of Elks for five consecutive terms, and was a former assistant corporation counsel for the city. He was elected to the Legislature in 1939, and was admitted to the Bar in 1907 after studying at Boston University School of Law.

McMASTERS' PAPERS CASE IS GIVEN TO JURY

BROCKTON, Feb. 28—No evidence was presented that a conspiracy took place in Brockton or that any of the defendants signed nomination papers themselves. Judge Felix Forte told the jury sitting in the trial of four Boston men charged with conspiracy to falsify nomination papers in William H. McMaster's campaign for governor. Judge Forte's charge took 85 minutes. He explained the law on conspiracy and mentioned only one defendant by name. He said that although Thomas J. Kerrigan acted as chauffeur he could not be found guilty on the basis that he "thought or surmised there might be a conspiracy."

"If there is any conspiracy there must be a meeting of minds of two or more persons," Judge Forte said.

He also instructed the jury that in the event a conspiracy takes place in one country and an overt act in another, the conspiracy may be prosecuted in the second country.

Judge Forte told the jurors they could return a verdict of guilty of one of the four defendants if they thought that individual entered into a conspiracy with outside parties, namely, John Doe and Richard Roe mentioned in the indictment.

On trial are John W. M. Walls of Milton and Boston, James J. O'Rourke, James S. and Thomas in yesterday's testimony as "just errand boys."

2 U. S. Consulates In Italy Closed

ROME, Feb. 28 (INS)—The United States consulates at Naples and Palermo were closed today and the personnel transferred temporarily to the consulate in Rome. There was no immediate explanation.

'HOME-BOY' IS HELD IN NURSE ATTACK

Despite his description of himself as a home-boy who helped his mother prepare the family meals, a 25-year-old West End man was held in $15,000 double surety for the grand jury in municipal court today when a pretty nurse insisted he was the intruder who nearly killed her in an attack attempt.

Michael Binkiewicz, of Anderson st., testified he helped his mother get breakfast and supper on the day in question. Miss Florence Gately, 22-year-old nurse, steadfastly maintained he was her attacker. Miss Gately's insistence that she had recognized Binkiewicz was made to Judge Jennie Lottman Barron when the youth further testified that after helping his mother with supper on the day of the attack, he spent the evening at home listening to a religious broadcast from New York.

The nurse, whose home is in Lowell, told of the events on the attack night which resulted in her being stabbed three times before her attempted attacker was driven off.

She testified she was awakened to hear a peculiar, thick voice command her to keep quiet if she didn't want to be killed. She said that at first she thought it was her roommate fooling in an attempt to scare her.

But when she looked up, she said, she saw a man at the foot of her bed. When she attempted to cry out he clapped a gloved hand across her face and tried to get into bed with her.

She testified that after a rough and tumble battle, in which she was stabbed the intruder fled.

FALSE ALARM AT HOSPITAL

Police and City Hospital officials today sought a deluded prankster who sounded a false fire alarm from inside the institution grounds. The alarm was rung from a box inside the gate on East Concord st.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, New York socialite and airlines head, today had announced in Gotham that his wife, Gladys Hopkins Whitney (pictured), was in Hobe Sound, Fla., establishing a residence preparatory to seeking a divorce. "All matters of mutual interest to Mrs. Whitney and myself have been very amicably settled," Whitney said.

Suicide Pact Survivor Cleared of Love Killing

Survivor of an alleged suicide pact when he jumped in front of a New York subway train with a young Canton woman on Jan. 19, Israel Hurwitz, 37, of Chestnut st., Chelsea, today was freed of a charge of suspicion of homicide by the authorities in New York.

Hurwitz's companion was Mrs. Carrie Hartwell Patterson, 26, of Pleasant st., Canton, mother of three children and wife of Oscar Patterson, World War veteran, cfr more than a year critically ill at Norfolk County Hospital, Braintree. Deserting his crippled wife, Hurwitz made the trip to New York with Mrs. Patterson. Reduced to their last dime, they used it to pay their way into the subway and jumped in the path of a four-car express train.

The woman was killed instantly. Hurwitz was picked up barely conscious, his arms still clasping the lifeless body of Mrs. Patterson and his eyeglasses still in place. At the hospital one of his legs was amputated.

She Forgets Her Divorce Suit Dates

Everybody had quite a tussle with her memory—Judge Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., Atty. Francis D. Branca, and even petite Mrs. Dorothy F. Smith, herself, and it finally worked out all right today.

The only thing was Judge Wilson still had his fingers crossed as the 32-year-old Dorchester brunette was leaving the Suffolk County courtroom. So he said to Atty. Branca:

"Just a minute. If she does get this divorce, you'd better tell her it becomes absolute in six months. She might forget!"

Mrs. Smith was seeking a divorce from Charles R., whom she married on June 16, 1929. She charged desertion and Smith wasn't present to contest.

ANOTHER DIVORCE PLEA

There was, with the petitioner's papers, another document noting that petition for divorce had been filed 10 years ago.

"How's this?" asked Judge Wilson. "Did you file for a divorce before?"

"Yes, your honor, I never did," Mrs. Smith responded.

"Did you ever have an attorney by the name of Charles J. Donovan file for you?"

"Oh, no," Judge Wilson looked baffled, then remarked:

"Believe it or not—here are two Dorothy F. Smiths, each married to a Charles R. Smith, and both on the same date. How do we explain that?"

No one volunteered an answer. "Let's look at the signatures," the judge suggested. "Is that you, Mrs. Smith?"

THEN SHE REMEMBERS

Mrs. Smith was sure it wasn't. So Judge Wilson compared the writing.

"The signatures are not alike," he decided. "The coincidence is astounding. Do you suppose someone else did this?"

Mrs. Smith didn't think so. Atty. Branca went to work on his client's memory. She was quite vague for a while, then said suddenly:

"Oh, I remember now. I went to a lawyer's office with my uncle at the time, a lawyer named Donovan."

She smiled happily, and then added:

"But I don't remember signing any papers."

"Your writing must have improved. What are you doing now, clerical work?" asked the judge.

"No, your honor," Mrs. Smith replied. "Hostess work."

"Well, I'll hear your case, but I'll take it under advisement," the court stated.

WHEN SMITH LEFT

Mrs. Smith explained that her husband went out of her life on Dec. 1, 1929, presumably to get a job in New York and then send for her.

"We corresponded for several months, and I haven't seen him since," she said.

"Now, now," interposed Judge Wilson again. "This lady really thinks getting a divorce is like going shopping. Her petition says she was deserted on Dec. 1, 1931."

Judge Wilson said he thought it would be well for them to amend Mrs. Smith's papers to get the alleged desertion date straightened out. She said she wanted to resume her maiden name of Reynolds.

Broker Given New Sentence by U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23 (AP)—Robert J. Boltz, former financial counsellor serving a 20-to-40-year state prison sentence for defrauding clients of over $1,000,000, pleaded guilty today to 102 federal indictments and was given an additional 20 years.

Judge George A. Walsh directed that the state and federal sentences run concurrently but stipulated that the federal sentence continue until its expiration in event Boltz was paroled by the state.

The federal indictments charged Boltz with using the mails to defraud and violation of the securities and exchange act in the operation of an investment business.

Nazis Seize Norway's 12 Largest Whaling Ship

OSLO, Norway (via Berlin), Feb. 28 (AP)—Press dispatches said today that Norway's largest whaling ship, the 24,000-ton Kosmos, which had been reported in the British service, had been seized by the Germans and taken to a French port.

The crew of 75 was said to have been interned.

10,000 DOWD REWARD CIRCULARS SENT OVER U.S.

Ten thousand circulars, announcing a state offer of $2500 reward for information leading to the capture of John F. Dowd, fugitive former sheriff of Suffolk County, were distributed throughout the country today.

The 8 by 18-inch circular on white paper includes four pictures of Dowd, a full description and fingerprints, and explains that he now is under indictment on 60 counts of corruptly requesting and accepting gratuities to the amount of $40,000.

Dowd is 45 years old, the description says, 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds, has dark chestnut hair and eyes, dark complexion, stocky build, wears eyeglasses. He has a scar on the right side of his face reaching down to his neck, usually wears dark clothes and a soft hat.

HENRY

And Then Pa Went Into Action!

$450,000 PAYROLL SAFE AT FORT DEVENS AFTER DRAMATIC TRIP UNDER HEAVY GUARD

After a dramatic trip from Boston with a $450,000 payroll, Army officials today were distributing the money to the swelling soldier population at Fort Devens.

Carried to the military camp under the protection of one of the heaviest guards in the state's history, the huge fortune represents the largest payroll at Ft. Devens since World War days.

Unknown to thousands who watched it, the rolling arsenal made its way from the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston through Arlington, Concord and Littleton.

MACHINE GUN GUARD

Convoys the two armored trucks were two scout cars, two command cars, a motorcycle squad, and squad of Massachusetts State Police, all grimly prepared against any possible attempt to seize the $450,000 payroll. Three of the best machine gunners in the nation were among the guards.

At Camp Edwards, plans were being made to formally welcome the first draftees at a formal reception Sunday in the South Theater there with Maj.-Gen. Roger W. Ekefeldt scheduled as principal speaker.

First to be sent by Boston, Worcester and Springfield induction stations, the selectees—some 900 strong—will be absorbed by Boston's 101st Infantry.

Some 9100 men in all will make up the YD quota, expected to be filled within the next three weeks.

At draft headquarters in Boston meanwhile, it was disclosed that only 2697 Bay State men remained to be called to the colors in the current call.

FULL QUOTA

Nineteen of the 78 Greater Boston draft board already have selected their full complement for the Army, it was further revealed.

Statistics by draft officials showed that 17,859 of the tentative Massachusetts quota of 20,556 up to July 1 have been called, although nearly one-half of this number still await actual induction.

But barring a large number of rejections, the Greater Boston boards will not have to send any more than 3000 men for induction until after July 1, it was estimated.

In a demonstration of physical fitness unparalleled since the draft started, two groups of 33 volunteers from Melrose and Needham were inducted into military service without a single rejection at the Boston Induction station.

The volunteers were among a total of 233 draftees ushered into one year's military training at Camp Edwards. Only 24 draftees were rejected during the latest examinations, officials said.

Autopsy on Farmer Reveals Two Hearts

MEDFORD, Ore., Feb. 23 (AP)—John S. Frick, 73-year-old farmer who died Monday, had two hearts of normal size, Dr. A. E. Merkel, county physician, reported, after an autopsy.

Dr. Merkel said one heart was in normal position, the other—the one that failed—was located just above the spleen and below the left lung. They were joined by the porta.

Women Learn Defense Tasks

It was the ladies' turn today to do their bit in preparing for a national emergency.

Gen. Daniel Needham, director of protection in Massachusetts, disclosed he has asked Miss Natalie Hays Hammond to form a civilian defense training school for women.

Initial plans call for instructing 200 women as leaders in a program to register and lead feminine groups in preparing to take over defense work should the men be called to the colors.

U. S. May Take Lodge Estate

A petition entered in Essex County registry of deeds in Salem disclosed today what appeared to be secret negotiations by the government to take over the Nahant estate of the late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge as a defense post.

Government engineers have been studying the picturesque estate, which reaches out into the ocean at East Point, and it is rumored the site will be converted into a reservation. Only a short distance away from Bass Point, defense work is being speeded on Ft. Ruckman.

7 ARMY MEN MISSING IN PLANE CRASH

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Feb. 23 (AP)—Seven United States Army airmen—three officers and four enlisted men—were missing today in the crash of a bomber which fell into Panama bay late yesterday, the fifth accident involving air corps craft in the canal zone this month.

Two of the occupants were said to have bailed out, but search parties using flares failed to find any trace of them last night.

The B-18 bomber, which belonged to the 99th Squadron stationed at Rito Hato, plunged into the bay a short distance from the Pacific entrance to the canal. It burst into flames upon striking the water. In previous accidents this month, two pilots were killed in separate pursuit plane crashes on Feb. 12 and one pilot was killed the next day. There were no fatalities in the fourth crash.

200 CHINESE KILLED

KUNMING, China, Feb. 28 (AP)—More than 200 persons were believed killed or injured when a theater collapsed here shortly before last midnight.

Coils Built in Concrete Floor Heat This House

STORRS, Ct., Feb. 23 (AP)—A botany professor who experimented with floor heating because he feared installation of radiators would spoil the interior appearance of his log cabin, said today he has evolved a method which would reduce construction costs on small homes from $300 to $500.

Dr. Raymond Wallace, Connecticut University faculty member, asserted thermo coils embedded in the floor of his 18x30-foot cabin represented the first successful attempt at floor heating in a dwelling.

Recalling how ancient Romans used hot air conduits under the floor, Dr. Wallace had his cabin built on a concrete slab in which was embedded a maze of three-quarter inch iron pipe. A hot water heating system and pump, regulated by a thermostat, keeps heated water flowing through the pipe.

Even in sub-zero weather, he said, the cabin maintains a temperature ranging from 69 to 73 degrees. Hot air rising toward the ceiling keeps the floor from becoming unduly warm.

Lieut. Riordan Rites Held Tomorrow

Funeral services for Lieut. Jeremiah J. Riordan, 73, retired, of the Boston police, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. in St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

He was a resident of Wilmington ave., Dorchester, and for many years was attached to the Charlestown station. He is survived by his widow, one son and five daughters.

MORE TRAWLERS DUE

The Boston fishing fleet, depleted by transfer of 14 large trawlers to the Navy for conversion into minesweepers, will add 21 new trawlers within a year, it was disclosed today.

NAZIS CLEAR COAST; HINT OF INVASION?

VICHY, French, Feb. 23 (AP)—Unconfirmed but credible reports that Germany is removing the French population from the channel coast were taken by some French observers today as indications of final preparations for attack on the British Isles.

Neutral circles, however, minimized the importance of such a move, saying it might be a routine military precaution to prevent leakage of information.

The best information was that the removals began in the middle of February and are proceeding slowly.

One source said the coastal strip was being cleared to depth of 22 miles.

EXILED EX-KING ALFONSO OF SPAIN DIES IN ROME

Saturday at Alfonso's own request.
The former king noted members of his family weeping and asked: "Am I so bad?"

Then he called for the priest.
The next day, however, he recovered sufficiently to listen by radio to Premier Mussolini's 45-minute address.

Beginning at midnight tonight masses will be said every half-hour in the tiny private chapel of Alfonso's hotel apartment.

FUNERAL MONDAY

Funeral services were arranged for Monday morning when the body will be taken from the Grand Hotel to his favorite church in Rome, St. Mary of the Angels, and afterward for final rites to the Spanish national church here, St. Mary Monserato.

A special Spanish government permit was obtained for the services at Monserato, where Don Juan was married.

The mantle of the Virgin Pilar was put over Alfonso shortly before he died, and it remained over him after his death. The garment, reputed to possess miraculous qualities in facilitating a cure of the sick, was sent from Spain.

Carabinieri in full dress uniforms stood guard outside the hotel, according to Alfonso's pomp befitting a former monarch. The flags of both the Spanish embassy buildings, in Rome and Vatican City, flew at half staff.

Crown Prince Umberto of Italy visited Alfonso's family at the hotel immediately upon learning of the ex-monarch's death and conveyed the condolences of Italy's King and Queen, with whom Alfonso was on terms of close friendship. They visited him last Saturday.

PRINCE JUAN
Heir to Spain's Throne

Mussolini sent his condolences to Victor and the family through Luigi Russo, undersecretary in the presidency of the council, who called at the hotel.

Prince Juan, heir to the non-existent Spanish throne, served years in the British navy and speaks English fluently. He married Princess Marie of Bourbon Sicily in 1935. They have two small children.

Except for an occasional trip to Switzerland, Alfonso spent almost his entire life in exile in Rome, where friends said he found the drain on his fortune less heavy than in any other European capital.

He reportedly was required to pay no taxes in Italy, whereas he was unable to get such an exemption elsewhere.

The former monarch died just nine days after the death of his faithful secretary, the Marquis of Torres, who shared his exile.

Alfonso was King from his birth, May 17, 1856, and reigned until April 14, 1931—a period marked by turbulence and political unrest which finally broke into civil war in 1936, when Spain was a republic.

REMAINED KING

Alfonso left Spain April 15, 1931, after signing a manifesto expressing his conclusion that anti-monarchist election results showed he no longer had the love of his people. But in his own estimate he remained King of Spain.

He declared again and again, "I will never abandon my throne." His hope and prediction were that some day he would return.

His final yielding, dated Jan. 15, 1941, was a renunciation of the throne in favor of his third son, Don Juan. This announcement was issued Feb. 13 when he already was under treatment at a Rome hotel for a heart condition.

For days Alfonso's condition wavered between "grave" and "slightly improved." On Thursday night he took a definite turn for the worse.

Alfonso was the posthumous son of Alfonso XII, and was under the regency of his mother, Queen Maria Cristina, until at 16 he ascended the throne. He was married May 31, 1906, to the English Princess, Victoria Eugenia of Battenberg.

HUGE WEDDING COST

The wedding cost $10,000,000 but the day was marred by the first of eight attempts on Alfonso's life. A bomb, hidden in a bouquet was thrown at the royal carriage after the wedding ceremony and 24 bystanders were killed. A splinter hit the King.

Alfonso and his wife were estranged for many years but she was with him today when the end came.

Alfonso was something of a playboy, with a fondness for dancing, polo, bull fights, yachting and fast driving.

Tragedy stalked his family. His eldest son, Alfonso, Prince of Asturias and Count of Covadonga, died in Miami in 1938 after an automobile accident. He was a victim of hemophilia, a hereditary affliction marked by the failure of blood to coagulate. His youngest son, Prince Gonzalo, died to death in 1934 after minor injury in an automobile accident in Austria.

His second son, Prince Jamie, was born deaf. Because of this affliction Jamie renounced his rights to the succession. There also were two daughters, Princess Beatrice and Princess Maria Cristina.

Death of Alfonso

Brings Sorrow to Spain

MADRID, Feb. 28 (AP)—Royalists and non-royalists alike expressed sorrow today over the death of former King Alfonso XIII in Rome.

Members of Spain's nobility sent condolences to the royal family in Rome and plans were made for religious ceremonies in memory of the late monarch.

There was no immediate official expression by the government.

It could not be learned whether permission would be given for Alfonso's burial in the crypt once set aside for him in the pantheon or royal mausoleum of the magnificent Escorial, 31 miles from Madrid.

British Act Speeds Balkan Showdown

LONDON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Authoritative sources in London declared today that Bulgaria must "bear responsibility for German aid."

Repeated British warnings to Bulgaria to avoid any act which might lead to a break in diplomatic relations were interpreted here as a move to force Germany to show her hand—whether she means to fight in the Balkans or was bluffing to screen an attempted invasion of England.

No date has been set for the departure from Sofia of British Minister George W. Rendel, a spokesman said, but added:

"Obviously it can't be delayed." The British hailed as an important political victory the announcement that "full agreement on all points" had been reached with Turkey.

Official circles frankly asserted assurances which Foreign Sec. Anthony Eden received from the Turkish government at Ankara had been the foundation for the firm stand taken yesterday by Rendel.

MAY BE SCREEN

Commenting on Rendel's warning, an informed source said:

"We still think it possible that German activity in Bulgaria may be a screen for offensive operations elsewhere, but Rendel's declaration makes it perfectly clear that if the Nazis even business in the Balkans so do we."

Rendel declared in an interview that "the forerunners" of a German invasion of Bulgaria already had entered that country "by hundreds—no, I say thousands," and hinted at the imminent possibility of a break in British-Bulgarian relations.

He added that if such a break occurred Bulgaria would "have to face the consequences of being a theater of war."

The British, Rendel said, would feel "free to attack the Germans on Bulgarian soil without any formal declaration of war."

One important point, this source said, had been cleared up by Eden in his visit to Ankara—namely, that the recent Turkish-Bulgarian non-aggression pact would be in no way be an obstacle to British bombing of Bulgarian communications and oil fields by way of countering German moves as Rendel threatened.

HAND STRENGTHENED

Assurances received from Turkey also were regarded in London as having strengthened Britain's hand with Soviet Russia. Observers noted the timing of Eden's announcement with the arrival in Turkey of Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador to Moscow, for a conference with Eden on British-Russian relations.

The conference will be the first Eden has had with Sir Stafford since the latter assumed his post at Moscow last June.

Rendel's statement at Sofia, added to steps Britain is taking to increase aid to Greece, also was expected here to counter any German pressure British said might be aimed to "cojole or scare" Greece into a separate peace with Italy.

Berlin Sees Bulgaria Signing Axis Pact

BERLIN, Feb. 28 (INS)—Strong reports that Bulgaria tomorrow will sign a treaty placing her on the side of the Rome-Berlin axis were heard in Berlin today.

There was no official confirmation. Official quarters refused to discuss the reports. But correspondents recalled that the Reich invariably has followed a policy of saying little about such momentous events until they have occurred.

Well-informed quarters expressed keen interest in dispatches from Budapest which quoted the authoritative Hungarian newspaper Pester Lloyd as stating Bulgaria would sign a three-point pact at Vienna tomorrow.

FIRE DESTROYS BOAT

NORWICH, Conn., Feb. 27 (AP)—A government-leased motor boat, the 60-foot Minnow owned by J. P. Downing of Holyoke, Mass., was destroyed by fire today on the Thames river. Its captain, Arthur Gray of Agawam, Mass., suffered minor burns.

NAZI AIRMEN REPORT 28 SHIPS BOMBED

BERLIN, Feb. 28 (AP)—Germans claimed for their air force today the sinking or damaging of 28 ships in the last two days and informed sources declared "it will be a little more lively next week."

"In fact," they added, "there will be no rest for the British merchant fleet or correspondents."

In addition to air and submarine warfare on the Atlantic there were indications that German air activities against the British in Africa were being stepped up.

The total tonnage claimed damaged or sunk by bombs in the past two days is 148,000.

To this reported aerial toll the high command added today 22,000 tons which its communiqué said recently had been sunk by a submarine. The total of 28 ships or damaged by bombs was given by informed sources in consolidating official reports.

LAND PLANE CREW

The communiqué credited the three-man crew of one combat plane with having destroyed 240,000 tons of British shipping space up to Feb. 27.

A special announcement by the high command yesterday gave more vessels had been sunk and seven damaged in an aerial attack on a convoy far out in the Atlantic.

To this the Germans added today the claim that 12 more merchant ships had run aground off Nazi bombers off the English coast.

The Luftwaffe was said to be keeping a sharp, successful watch on British shipping movements, carrying out numerous individual attacks on vessels and on convoys.

NAZI CLAIMS

From scattered reports, the Germans compiled the following list of ships said to have been damaged in the latest phase of the stepped-up offensive against Britain's supply lanes:

Five vessels of 10,000, 4500, 4000, 2000 and 3000 tons each attacked at designated places; a 1600-ton ship off Montevideo; 4000-tonner east of Ipswich; a 3000-tonner from a convoy near Harwich; two 2000-tonners near Southend-on-Sea and two others of 5000 and 4000 tons respectively.

WAITT FIRST WIFE TELLS OF FARM LIFE

BROCKTON, Feb. 26—Testimony ended here today in the case of Henry F. Waitt, 39, of Wayne, Me., who is petitioning for dissolution of a spendthrift trust and discharge of his two guardians so that he may inherit the $60,000 Waitt cigar fortune.

Witnesses today included Mrs. Marion Shaw of South Carver, Waitt's divorced wife, who told of some incidents that occurred when she was living on a Middleboro farm with Waitt.

"Once I went out of the house leaving it locked," she said. "Henry and I each had keys. I came back to find the fire out, the doors open, water all over the house, and the telephone wires cut."

SHOT 2 HENS

"Another time he bought two guinea hens for $5, and a little while later they got loose and went to a neighbor's yard. This made Henry so mad he got his shotgun and killed the two birds and buried them. Then he gave a man permission to dig them up and have them for dinner."

"Virginia was sick at the time (Virginia is Waitt's 16-year-old daughter) but neither during the divorce nor since have Virginia and myself received so much as a note from Henry."

"He spent all his money on guns, dogs, liquor, and riding around in his car. We had enough to eat, but Virginia was not properly clothed. After the divorce I received $3000 from Henry, supposed to represent the price for which he sold the farm."

WAITT CALLED AGAIN

She explained that at times the poultry had neither food nor water, though Waitt sometimes went to the pump and got them water; and though the 11-acre farm had a fine garden when they took possession, it had none thereafter.

Waitt resumed the stand to explain he knew nothing about caring for poultry when he lived in Middleboro, though he learned later. He denied having injured his second wife's wrist.

Judge Harry K. Stone reserved next Tuesday for arguments by counsel.

NAZIS SELL REMBRANDT

BERLIN, Feb. 26 (AP)—DNE, German news agency, in an Amsterdam dispatch today quoted the Amsterdam Telegraf as reporting the sale of a Rembrandt painting, "Rembrandt's Father as a Priest," to a private buyer at public auction in The Hague for 20,000 guilders.

Fashion Show At Hovey's

With spring just around the corner, C. F. Hovey Co. and McCall's joined forces today to help milady get that glamorous look and at the same time keep her budget balanced.

Six mannequins were showing 24 coquette in a different kind of a spring fashion show at Hovey's ground floor department. Showings were at 12:30 and at 2:30 p. m.

Just to make it easier, the store had all the materials ready for the prospective purchaser, together with a complete assortment of "easy-to-make" patterns of the dresses, suits and ensembles shown.

McCall's has highlighted spun rayons, cottons and linens to these wardrobes. They were shown complete with hats and accessories, and the mannequins used Primrose House cosmetics, created for the new season.

French Rebuff Japs As Ultimatum Ends

liable informant, Japan planned the alternative of "forceful action to win justice for Thailand."

An extension would be granted by the Japanese in case the French Colonial administration proved that it was waiting only for Vichy's confirmation of acceptance of the Japanese plan for settlement of the frontier dispute.

Reports circulated today in Saigon, French Indo-China, that Japanese naval patrols totalling 51 vessels of various classifications were in the Gulf of Siam and waters of southern Indo-China.

New York today heard a Domei (Japanese news agency) broadcast from Tokyo that the war minister, Gen. Eiji Tojo, was received by Emperor Hirohito. An imperial audience for the war minister sometimes is a prelude to important military action.—Editor's Note.

Tojo Ishii, official spokesman of the cabinet information bureau, said Japanese nationals in Indo-China had been advised to prepare to leave and reliable sources asserted the actual evacuation order had been given to 200 Japanese in Saigon.

FRENCH STAND FIRM

Japanese-language news papers published reports that Vichy already had rejected the settlement, which reliable quarters said had been paired down from original demands by Thailand for roughly 60 per cent of the Indo-Chinese provinces of Cambodia and Laos.

Direct reports from Vichy said the French government, taking a strong stand on the issue, was massing troops on the Indo-Chinese frontier for possible hostilities if the armistice is ended. The French were reported unwilling to yield anything beyond a small strip around Bassac on the right bank of the Mekong river.—Editor's note.

Greeks Pound Trapped Foe

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 23 (AP)—Heavy losses were inflicted on an Italian force of untested size which was "trapped" by Greek fire on the Albanian front, the Greek high command reported last night.

Reports reaching the Yugoslav frontier said rain and snow were causing the Greeks considerable difficulty in the transportation of food and supplies to the front. Some units were said to be on reduced rations.—Editor's note.

RAP bombers, escorted by Hurricane fighters, heavily bombed the Italian airdrome at Valona, Albania, and shot down seven Fascist pursuit planes in a running dog fight, British headquarters here announced today.

British Using New Bombers

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The British disclosed today that new four-motored Short Stirling bombers, described as among the world's most powerful multi-engine planes, had been sent against the Germans for the first time "a few nights ago."

The magazine Aeroplane said these craft combined ability to carry big loads with speed and powerful defensive armament. It added:

"Their addition to our operations forces will greatly increase our power to strike at the enemy's war effort in the heart of his territory."

3 Socialists Ordered To Quit Chile Cabinet

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 24 (AP)—The three Socialist ministers of President Aguirre Cordero's eight-man cabinet today were ordered to resign by the Socialist party's central committee.

The Socialists charged that an "infamous alliance of Communists and radicals" have formed a leftist front in coalition with administration supporters "undermining the government and public administration with disgraceful procedure."

Widespread Plot Against Mussolini Reported in London

LONDON, Feb. 23 (INS)—Italian prisoners captured in Albania have disclosed a widespread plot against Mussolini, Exchange Telegraph reported from Athens today.

Military men, civilians and even members of the Fascist party were implicated. It was said. A number of officers serving on the Albanian front have been arrested for treason, the prisoners said.

DUCE'S PAPER SEES LOSS OF 2 BIG COLONIES

By PERCY WINNER

ROME, Feb. 23 (INS)—Italy may abandon Somaliland and Eritrea to advancing British forces and make her stand in the mountain fastnesses of Ethiopia, the Italian press indicated today.

Mussolini's own newspaper, Popolo D'Italia, made this prediction as the Italian high command admitted Mogadiscio, capital of Somaliland, had been evacuated, then presumably occupied by British troops.

The lowlands of Somaliland and Eritrea are hardly defensible against modernized attack, Popolo pointed out. Thus both may be lost.

But in the mountains of Ethiopia, adequate defenses are possible, Popolo said, and the British drive which thus far has achieved considerable success may be stopped.

Popolo also had another piece of bad news for the Italian people.

From November to February, it admitted, five troop transports were sunk in the Mediterranean. One carried 200 non-combatants, the paper said, while the others were empty.

South African Fliers Blast Fleeing Italians

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Feb. 23 (AP)—The South African Air Force announced today it had flown beyond Mogadiscio, captured capital of Italian Somaliland, machine-gunning Italian transport in movement.

The air force carried its "offensive reconnaissance" beyond Holo Burti, 130 miles north of Mogadiscio on the Webbe Shubell river, the communique said. Six trucks were said to have been destroyed and others damaged.

New Discovery Kills Germs in War Bombs

By G. ILAL

International News Service Science Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (INS)—Discovery of a method for spreading a germ-killing mist in the air as defense against the possible use of bacterial bombs in warfare was reported by four University of Chicago scientists in the publication "Science" today.

Drs. O. H. Robertson, Edw. Biggs, Benjamin F. Miller and Zelma Baker have developed chemical mists, "aerosols," consisting of "glycol substances" with amide-destroying powers of destroying disease germs in the air.

PROMPTED BY WAR

While these University of Chicago scientists make no direct reference to the war in their technical report, it is known authoritatively that the current war has prompted their researches. The immediate problem of destroying germs in the atmosphere is also very pressing in the air raid shelters in England.

Moreover, noted British biologists have stated recently that "bacterial war"—spreading of epidemic germs or viruses by special bombs—is possible. If the present war becomes very desperate, an attempt to win some decisive victory by dissemination of disease germs and viruses may be made.

In view of such new emergencies the development of sterilizing chemical mists assumes marked importance.

One of the mists used in the experiments consisted of propylene glycol.

SPECTACULAR RESULTS

The spectacular results obtained in experiments with the deadly "staphylococcus albus" germs, which cause fatal wound infections, was gangrene and such, are revealed by the scientists as follows:

"One part by weight of propylene glycol in two million volumes of air produced complete sterilization (germs destruction) of an atmosphere containing as many as 100,000 bacteria per cubic liter of air."

The destruction of the germs was strikingly rapid; in a few seconds entire legions of them were annihilated.

Among other types of germs similarly demolished were those of pneumonia, sore throat and tonsil infection, and others responsible for nose, throat and lung infections.

Beside propylene glycol, ethylene glycol and trimethylene glycol mists had almost equal germ-killing powers. Other new substances are being made and tested.

DO NO HARM

These materials, in the way that they are used, did no recognizable harm to animals used in laboratory tests, so they are considered harmless to human beings. However, further research is being made to learn what effect upon the human lungs these chemical mists may produce.

Thus, mists will be developed which will kill the germs in the air without harm to the human body.

Smoke Seen 20 Miles As Rubber Tires Burn

NAUGATUCK, Ct., Feb. 28.—Using foam generators, firemen brought under control a spectacular fire of old automobile tires on an acre lot of the Naugatuck Chemical Co., which reclaims rubber.

Billows of acrid smoke could be seen plainly in New Haven, some 20 miles away, but the smoke drifted high enough so that homes and business houses here were little affected.

The Bogeyman'll Get You in Alaska

Eskimo drawing showing "Tupilak" or evil spirit entering a house.

REMEMBER THE TALES of the Bogeyman that frightened your childhood?

Now, it appears, the Bogeyman was not restricted to American youngsters alone. For archeologists, digging into ruins centuries old in Alaska, have unearthed proof which indicates that long before recorded history, the ancient Eskimo mother warned her child:

"Now you be good—or the Bogeyman will get you!"

Her Bogeyman was probably the "Terrible Man With the Ivory Eyes," later known as a "Tupilak" or evil spirit.

How scientists have dug up this weird Ivory-eyed skull is graphically related by Irmis Johnson, science research expert, in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with the next Sunday Advertiser.

HEROIC is the word for the pilots of the R. A. F., battling against the numerically superior Nazi air armada.

U. S. Licenses Urged For Insurance Firms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Compulsory federal registration of life insurance companies doing interstate business was proposed to the monopoly committee today by Sumner T. Pike, the securities commission's representative on the committee.

He also recommended that such companies be required to submit to federal examination. Pike asserted that these, together with other recommendations offered by himself and Gerhard A. Gesell, would provide "some slight supervision over certain primarily interstate aspects" of life insurance. The business already is subject to regulation by the states.

AIDS STATE RULE

At the same time, Pike declared that "the federal government should not supplant the states, nor should it interfere with their regulatory processes."

"We do not recommend or suggest any form of strict, all-inclusive federal regulations," he said. "On the contrary, the entire purpose of our proposals is to demonstrate that such regulation can be avoided by strengthening the existing state regulatory machine."

Pike declared, however, that "if some steps are not taken now to plug the gaps where state regulation cannot do an effective job or where standards may become unduly relaxed, the weaknesses in the existing state regulatory system may lead to its eventual decay and public clamor will then arise for an all-inclusive federal regulatory system."

WIDER PROBE URGED

Pike also suggested that the government encourage "the gradual disappearance and eventual elimination of industrial insurance" through a system of lump sum death benefits under the Social Security system or by providing government insurance of a similar type through postal facilities.

He described industrial insurance as the type "sold in small amounts primarily to persons of little means" and under which premiums are paid weekly or monthly to collectors who call at the homes of the insured.

Besides the recommendations with respect to life insurance, Pike proposed that Congress or some federal agency be directed to conduct "a thorough investigation of all forms of fire, casualty and marine insurance."

Trio Get $210 In 2 Holdups

Alertness of a policeman's wife was credited today with halting a crime wave by three bandits who raced through Cambridge staging two holdups which netted $210.

The trio, all armed, first struck at a variety store in Sherman st., forcing Alicandro Graziano, 40, the proprietor, into the rear and taking $125 from the cash register. They reappeared at a pastry shop in Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge, a few minutes later and took $75 from George Kryroukou.

With cruising cars racing about the city helpless to halt the bandits, Mrs. James Shea of Putnam ave., spotted men in a car looking over a grocery store near her home. Her phone call brought police on the double, but the men in the car fled at their approach.

Rhode Island Draft Head Named by F.D.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Brig.-Gen. Herbert H. Dean to be selective service director for Rhode Island.

SHAWMUT BANK TO GIVE DEFENSE CONTRACTORS AID

An "all-out" loan service for New England contractors handling defense contracts was announced today by the National Shawmut Bank.

"By 'all-out' we mean just that," declared President Walter S. Burdick, who said the bank's new addition would be known as the Shawmut Defense Loan Department.

"We want to emphasize the point that the size of the contract or the amount of financing has nothing whatever to do with the degree of active rendered by the Shawmut Bank.

22 ARMY'S FIRST PILGRIM TRUCKS OFF FORD LINE

DETROIT, Feb. 28.—The "pilgrim" truck, of which the United States Army has 4500 on order, reached the volume production stage on Ford Motor Co. assembly lines today.

The truck, with a load capacity of a quarter ton and small enough to be "easily concealed in the field," or to be transported by large army bombers, is unique in military service. It is designed to take the place, in many respects, of the motorcycle and has space for normal transporting of three men, an anti-aircraft gun and light machine pieces.

Army officers and Ford officials say the first vehicles come off the line.

The company made no announcement of the output volume expected, but all the mass production methods have been adapted to the building of the "pilgrim" vehicles. In the line today were 30 of these light units in various stages of completion. Moving off the line, they are to be sent away for mounting.

The vehicle, officially designated by the Army as a "reconnaissance scout car," has an 80-inch wheelbase and 127 1/2 inch overall length. It weighs 2130 pounds and is equipped with a four-cylinder engine producing 45 horsepower and top speed of 57 miles an hour. Equipped with four-wheel drive, it speeds forward and two reverse, the car is said to have unusual maneuverability and to be capable of climbing a 68 per cent grade with its full load and 60 per cent with driver only.

The initial Ford order calls for 30 of the units at a cost of $1,750.

Lord Gort's Son Found Dead, Gun in Hand

LONDON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Lieut. Charles Standish Vereker, only son and heir of Lord Gort, former commander of the British expeditionary force on the continent, was found dead yesterday in a village in south England with a service pistol in his hand. It was disclosed today. An inquest will be held tonight.

The body of the young lieutenant, who married in 1938 and who was one of the last officers to be removed from Dunkirk during the British withdrawal last June, was found in the village of Corfe Mullen, Dorset.

His father now is inspector general of the forces for training and aide de camp to King George VI. Vereker, 29, was a second lieutenant in the Brigade of Guards. He was a graduate of Harrow and Cambridge and distinguished himself in intercollegiate athletics. For a time he worked in the war office under Alfred Duff Cooper, then war secretary, and later was employed by the admiralty.

Mothers Routed In Aid Bill Tilt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (INS)—Creating an uproar in the Senate office building, Capitol police today broke up a sit-down strike of mothers opposing President Roosevelt's lease-lend bill in front of the office of Sen. Carter Glass (D.) of Virginia.

One woman fainted as the group showed and pulled against police. The police arrested Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, head of the mothers crusade against H. R. 1776.

The women charged Sen. Glass had a British flag in his office, and as they were rushed down the corridors they chanted at a screaming pitch "down with the Union Jack."

It was the second time Mrs. Dilling, Chicago author of "The Red Network," has been arrested for picketing against the bill, previous charges being dropped.

Glass has been ill the last few

WHEELER IN BITTER ATTACK ON VITAL BRITISH AID BILL

majority" of communications he had received from the public were against the bill. The minority favoring it, he continued, revealed that they did so because they did not understand the measure. They had been lulled by "soothing assurances" from their leaders that the bill "will keep us out of war."

Here he quoted Scripture with caustic irony, but without mentioning names:

"The words of one of the Psalms: The words of his mouth were smoother than butter but war was in his heart."

FIRST OF 2 SPEECHES

Wheeler's address was the first of the two major speeches which he planned for the closing days of the Senate's general debate on the legislation. In view of the No. 1 role he has popularly been assigned in the fight on the British aid measure, his speeches were regarded as the climax offensive of the opposition's floor battle.

Before Wheeler could take the floor, he had to wait until Sen. Maloney (D.) of Connecticut, a supporter of the bill, delivered his planned speech in behalf of passage without further delay.

As the Senate reached its 11th day of general debate, Administration leaders were arranging for longer sessions next week in hopes of expediting consideration of amendments and then final action.

Sen. Connally (D.) of Texas, one of the strategy board, remarked that "while you can't call all this speechmaking a filibuster, it has some of the earmarks of one."

Wheeler described the address he prepared for today as a legalistic analysis of the measure. He would follow, he said, with a discussion of the bill's background "and the policy followed of readying the country to accept the present war as our war."

NO LIMITATIONS

The bill, in his opinion, placed virtually no limitations on the President.

"There is nothing," he asserted, "to keep him from attempting secretly to dictate the war aims of the foreign governments as part of the price to be paid, and thus commit us to those war aims."

"Having failed in a domestic purge, he can inaugurate a purge on an international scale, to rid the world of rulers with whom he disagrees or who may challenge his claims to a benevolent dictatorship."

"Talk about blank checks! Could Messiah ask for more?" Mentioning Willkie at one point, Wheeler dubbed the 1940 G. O. P. presidential nominee "the intrepid Trojan horse of the Republican party."

"Mr. Willkie's present advocacy of all-out aid to Britain may prove to be just early campaign oratory looking toward the Democratic nomination in 1944," he suggested.

The lease-lend bill, Wheeler charged at another time, was drafted "by nameless ghost writers with a passion for anonymity" and their identity "remains a state secret." Then he added:

"I for one should like to know whether the agents of a foreign government, registered or unregistered, have participated in writing this bill."

HITS BANKERS

"The title of H. R. 1776 (an act further to promote the defense of the United States and for other purposes) is the culmination of the subversive propaganda efforts of international bankers, masquerading under the name of the committee to defend the United States by aiding the Allies . . .

"History will record no stranger or more unaccountable marriage than this affectionate union between Wall Street and the New Deal, after their bitter estrangement of the past eight years."

Wheeler described his fears that enactment of the bill would virtually make negative congressional controls.

"We shall no longer be free agents," he predicted, "just marionettes to dance when our ruler pulls the strings, just Charlie McCarthys to utter words that the ruler puts into our mouths."

He rejected the idea that the lease-lend bill was for the defense of the United States. Actually, he said, "it covers an insensate program to strip the United States of its defense for the benefit of foreign nations and at the same time to plunge the United States, stripped of its arms, headlong into war at the whim of the Chief Executive without further consulting Congress or the people."

CAUSTIC ON PLEAS

During 18 years in the Senate, Wheeler went on, "I have worn no man's label and followed meekly no party's line."

He was caustic about pleas for "unity" on the bill. These, he said, were prompted by "the specious theory that once the majority has spoken, the minority loses its right to express itself and fight for its beliefs."

"This sort of unity is best achieved by Hitler's Gestapo or Stalin's OGPU."

TIME FOR ACTION

Sen. Maloney told the Senate that if it defeated the bill, the psychological effect might well be "disastrous" for England, her allies and the smaller nations of the world.

The time has come, he asserted, for "action—not debate."

While the nation might not be able to avoid war, he said he believed the bill offered the best hope of peace.

Should the lease-lend program be voted down, he declared "all over the world men may surrender their hopes and their aspirations and the curtain may not rise again for generations."

"The magnificent courage of Britain might falter if this country—through misguided action—should callously leave the Englishman to his fate."

Maloney announced he was willing to vote extraordinary power to the President because he believed that Mr. Roosevelt would exercise such authority "with prudence and with wisdom."

SEES U. S. ARMED CAMP

"Actually," he said, "we are at war in a kind of way. It is a war declared upon our right to live as we desire. The totalitarian dictators have themselves—in speeches indirectly aimed at us—declared that war."

"I am unimpressed by the statements of those who point out that since Britain's aggressors have thus far been unable to cross the channel, that it is stupid to consider the thought that they might successfully cross the ocean," he declared.

"If they do cross the channel, they can surely cross much of the ocean and reduce the difference in distance between their land and ours to a great extent."

I Britain fell, he continued, the United States would be forced to become an "armed camp" where "growing aggressiveness" might be "kindled into flame by the representatives of those who have so often expressed a hatred for our kind of government and our way of life."

DR. BENNETT F. AVERY, new dean of Boston University's School of Medicine, would make changes in the Selective Service system.

The doctor does not like the idea of taking young men out of medical colleges and putting them in the Army.

He thinks an ability to handle a scalpel can be more important for a limited number of youthful Americans in this emergency than knowing how to shoulder a gun or bare a bayonet.

He therefore suggests a blanket draft deferment for all medical students. This, he says, might stem the drain on the output of the country's doctors.

The Avery argument is not new; dozens of college heads and professors have been saying substantially the same thing in recent weeks.

In academic circles there seems to be a growing feeling that the draft is a good thing for youngsters outside of college but a very harmful thing for those on the inside.

Nobody appears to be shedding tears over the separation of 30 and 35-year-old men from their jobs and families.

But there is an increasingly great protest against asking lads in their early twenties to give up their books for a year.

Still, let us not be too harsh with the professors and college heads.

The plan to let some men do the fighting and dying while others stay at home did not originate with them.

As the country well knows, the plan originated with the Congressmen and Senators who enacted the Conscription Law.

These gentlemen, who are now busily engaged in adopting a war bill, were very careful to see to it that they themselves would not be required to wear khaki.

FROM MAINE comes a different kind of Conscription complaint.

State Prison Warden John H. Welch says he thinks "several young men who have been sent to jail in recent months committed crimes just to avoid the draft."

The warden points out that such offenses as automobile larceny have increased since Selective Service went into effect.

"Slackers," he believes, know that the Army does not accept persons with criminal records unless they have received executive pardons.

It seems unbelievable that any young American would prefer a prison record to honorable duty with his country's colors.

None the less, the warden's statements do provide food for thought.

And thousands are going to ask:

"If the war-mongers in and out of Washington succeed in dragging peaceful America into the European conflict, will it be fair to sacrifice the lives and ruin the futures of millions of law-abiding young men while criminals remain behind to take the jobs these self-respecting youngsters are forced to leave?"

BAY STATE SPINSTERS have a loyal friend on Beacon Hill.

He is Charles W. Olson, the bachelor Senator from Ashland. In the belief that something in the way of kindness should be shown "girls over twenty-five years of age," Senator Olson is carrying on a lone fight to revive the $2000 tax exemption that used to be accorded unmarried women up to a dozen years ago.

He tells his fellow law-makers:

"I believe that in the eyes of God, a spinster is just as worthy, just as deserving as a woman fortunate enough to have the title of widow.

"Should we tell these elderly women that they will get their reward in Heaven? I say NO; let's give it to them NOW."

So far, the Senate as a body has not been impressed.

In fact, the members turned down the Olson proposal by a rising vote of seventeen to five on Wednesday.

Just the same, we are going to cheer for the Senator. There has been too much ridicule of "old maids" and single women of advanced years.

Too few people ever stop to realize that many of these women are unmarried because they spent their youth supporting fathers, mothers and younger brothers and sisters.

"U. S. GOODS FOR RUSSIA" was the subject of a powerful cartoon in a recent edition of the New York Daily Mirror.

The picture showed Adolf Hitler chatting with Joseph Stalin as the two dictators stood on a wharf and watched American freighters go by, and Adolf was saying:

"Those are the safest ships on the sea, Joe."

Nothing could convey to the reader a better idea of the stupidity—if not the downright hypocrisy—of our "policy" of combating anti-democratic Germany with one hand and with the other aiding anti-democratic (and ANTI-AMERICAN) Soviet Russia by shipping millions of dollars of war merchandise to her.

"WHAT, NO HUSBAND?" is the title of a clever magazine article by our smart looking contemporary, Hildegarde Dolson. Hildegarde, confessing she is 32, is still single. She is becoming somewhat weary of married women sympathizing with her, being patronizing, trying to make a match for her, etc. She wants to wait in peace for the right man to come along and sweep her off her feet, etc. Miss Dolson's article will strike many a sympathetic note among our feminine friends who are living alone and liking it, or otherwise. Some women harassed beyond endurance by the "What, no husband?" query will marry the first man proposing in order to escape the torture of the aforementioned question. Perhaps these women should move to another city where they are not known and put a "Mrs." instead of a "Miss" before their names and pose as widows or divorcees. I know a woman who did something like this very successfully. As a "Miss" and a brunette in the East she was not a sensation, but as a divorcee and a strawberry blonde in the West she was a social riot. I have other ideas on this matter which may be discussed later in the semester. Now don't sneer, lady, remember, I am just trying to be helpful. It is all part of our service to subscribers.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Thursday—Today I shall tell you a little about the work of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, which I visited Wednesday.

I wonder if people realize that these children, even when they are in the homes of foster parents, are watched over by agencies in various parts of the country, chosen by the United States Children Bureau.

Sometimes these agencies are State agencies, sometimes they are private ones, but they always come up to a high standard set by the Children's Bureau and our guests from overseas are safe in their care.

No matter how careful they are in a choice of a home, however, a child does not always adjust and there is friction between the members of the household. In that case, the agency tries to find another home in which a happier adjustment can be made.

Occasionally, people undertake a responsibility without realizing quite what it means when they face it day in and day out.

Financial changes occur, problems arise with the family and necessitate changes. All these are part of the responsibility assumed by the United States Committee.

THE COMMITTEE in many cases assumes financial responsibility for the children and must keep a skeleton staff and continue to raise a steady income. For the time being, no effort is being made to bring over children from England, but there are children arriving on various steamers, sometimes entirely unaccompanied.

The United States Committee is notified, meets them, and arranges for reception care until they are placed in a home in this country. It may be possible to bring some children from Lisbon.

These children are either now in Lisbon awaiting passage, or agencies hope to bring them over in small groups. They are largely refugee children of many nationalities from unoccupied France.

I was surprised to learn the other day that here are still five hundred children with their parents in concentration camps in unoccupied France.

SOME OF THEM may eventually find their way to our shores, as well as others who can no longer be cared for in France by individuals and groups there. It seems to me that every child saved is just one more life for which to be thankful.

I hope that the United States Committee for the Care of European Children will continue to do its work with the same success that it has had so far.

I lunched with Dr. Dearborn, some of the faculty of New York University extension service and some of the educational people from the CCC camps in the corps area in New York city yesterday.

The reading clinic of the university has conducted an experiment in one of the CCC camps in this area which reveals uncorrected eye defects in a great many of these boys and certain facts about their reading ability which point to some needed changes in our educational system.

It's war coming to London. ... You can hear the bombs hurt, falling on streets and houses. Don't tune me out. ## SHAWMUT DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT

TO ASSIST YOU in every phase of National Defense work ... in obtaining contracts and financing them. The first complete service of its kind in New England to aid the Defense Program.

* * *

The great program of National Defense has just begun. Billions of dollars will be invested to preserve the American Way of Life. The wheels of the greatest industrial power-house in the world are spinning, gaining momentum each day. While the lights go out in Europe, they are going on over here.

From buttons to bombers — from beef to battleships — the search for the materials of defense goes on by the vast agencies of the Government.

New England's share in this gigantic program already amounts to nearly $2,000,000,000 — and the end is nowhere in sight.

Months ago, the National Shawmut

Bank started its study of the Defense Program. ... Trained investigators were sent to Washington, contacts were established, data collected and analyzed. A mighty task beyond the facilities of any individual and most organizations.

Shawmut's DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT resulted — a department staffed by many of our ablest officers — for the sole purpose of assisting New England business concerns and their local banks in solving the intricate problems of defense participation as simply and efficiently as possible.

Here's how Shawmut's DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT can help you as a direct contractor or supplier and as a sub-contractor or supplier —

DIRECT CONTRACTORS AND SUPPLIERS

1. Through its close contacts with Government offices in Washington, in New England, and elsewhere, Shawmut's DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT is alert to the constant and important changes in this huge and swiftly-moving program.
2. By extending credit to sound concerns having contracts, or in connection with their bidding for (a) Emergency Plant Facilities, including buildings or machinery; (b) the construction of barracks, naval vessels, airports or other Government works; (c) the manufacture of materials and all kinds of armament products;

3. By acting as a clearing-house in finding suppliers and sub-contractors;
4. By assisting in placing your name on the proper lists maintained by the Government's procurement agencies;
5. By furnishing you the most recently printed forms or otherwise assisting your concern in filing a survey of its operations and products with the proper authorities.

SUB-CONTRACTORS AND SUPPLIERS

6. By presenting to sound sub-contractors and material men special methods worked out by our bank for financing labor and materials;
7. By acting as a clearing-house in bringing your facilities to the attention of direct contractors.

Shawmut's DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT is sincerely interested in all-out co-operation with the Program of National Defense. Direct contractors, large or small — sub-contractors, large or small — any sound New England concern, and its local banker, will find here equal consideration, impartial attention, a truly helping hand.

Write, wire, call or phone for either additional particulars, or an appointment. The address is 40 Water Street, Boston; the telephone number is LA 4-ette 6600.

BLONDIE

Poor Connection!

YOU COULD SAY what you liked about Archie Melton but you could never accuse him of loving his neighbor. Archie didn't even like him. He despised him for being a bum, a crook, a grafter, a woman chaser or a drunk. If he didn't fit into any of those categories, Archie labelled him a hypocrite.

Archie was 39, and he had never been married and, to hear him tell it, he never would be. What, he would ask, do women ever get a man? Trouble. They were dizzy. They didn't think like men, even when they thought, which was seldom. When they did, it generally came out bad for all concerned.

Archie was a copy writer in the advertising firm of Baldwin, Condwin, Dornin, Farthington & Slack and he wrote sentimental copy so good that he was assigned to handle his firm's part of the Red Cross campaign. "Give till it hurts," was the main idea, and they sold Archie's copy and the War, in that order, were responsible for the vast increase in donations to that world-wide humanitarian institution.

He was a short, thick-set man with a red face, a blunt nose, a vice-like mouth and a square chin. You'd have to imagine all these things together to make a pretty good looking man, for Archie was thin.

He met Harriet Swops at a Red Cross get-together and the only explanation for his attraction to her must have been the law of opposites. It had to be, although Harriet was a pretty girl. She had been out four years and she worked at nothing in a hectic and serious way.

Philanthropy was her medium. She did amateur social settlement work, buying into the flats and hovels of the hopelessly poor and seeing to it that very young children were fed and clothed and that their parents spread their relief money so that at least 30 per cent went to the grocery stores.

AN IDEAL MODEL

The night Archie saw her, she was wearing a nurse's uniform and his first thought was that she would be an ideal model for a billboard appeal with her blue eyes, tiny nose, generous mouth and slim, rounded body. He was so constituted that he really believed that his interest in her was strictly professional.

During their first five or six evenings together at shows, night clubs, museums (because Harriet was strong for intellectual development as well as uplift) and hockey games (Archie liked hockey because so many players were socked and kicked), he was working copy around her, trying out phrases and fitting them to her.

To him, she was the ideal feminine sucker, who would give till it hurt anybody and he knew if he could get her on paper, he had a perfect appeal.

The night he realized he was in love with her, they were riding home to the Skopie apartment in a cab. The cab stopped suddenly and came almost to a stop to avoid a bus. Harriet was thrown pretty hard against Archie. His arms went around her to break her fall and, the first thing he knew, his mouth was against hers and she was sighing.

Archie just let her gently upright and kissed her.

"I'm sure," he said fiercely, "that was a selfish thing to do. I'm not in the habit of doing it. I don't know what he me, I assure you that I have the deepest respect for you, Miss Swops, and if you can overlook it and allow me to keep on seeing you, I promise it will never happen again."

"Why not, Archie?" Harriet asked, "Don't you love me?"

He stared at her. It had never occurred to him. Could that be the explanation for the glow with which he awoke in the morning? The gentle affability with which he treated customers and colleagues? The sudden stoppage of all important thought before a rush of warm feeling?

"I don't know," Archie declared honestly. "Yes. That's it. I believe I am!"

"What, Archie?"

He looked at her with new, but not seeing, eyes.

"Archie," he pronounced, "you are a very lovely girl."

"I'm glad you think so," Harriet whispered. "Do you want to kiss me again?"

It was at this point that Archie started Harriet's education. "People," he told her, "are heels. Some of them are high and some of them are low, but they're all heels. They'll steal you blind. They'll lie to you. They'll go back on their word. You can't trust anybody any further than you can throw them. That goes for men, women and child."

"Oh, no!" Harriet defended the race. "Men and women are instinctively good. When they are bad, it is not their fault. Cruelty or poverty has made them what they are. We must forgive the transgressor. Love is everything."

A CHANGED MAN

The funny thing was that he believed her. He didn't really. He knew better. But he acted as if he did and he couldn't help it. That was the reason he helped this Willie Glubb.

Willie came upon Archie in the Grand Central Station and stopped him cold with a line that Archie, ever afterward, never ceased to admire. Willie was a lawyer, down on his luck. He was a college man. He hadn't eaten for two days. Could Archie help him out a little? Archie brought him into a restaurant, saw him eat a terrific meal and then brought him home to Darien, Ct., where he kept a bachelor's apartment. Willie made him out at home. He bathed and got into a pair of Archie's pajamas. He told Archie his tale of hard luck until Archie almost cried. He went to bed and he said he wouldn't get up the next morning because he hadn't slept anywhere but in flop houses and Mills hotels for months.

Archie left a five-dollar bill on the dressing table for Willie and went to work. When he returned that night, Willie had gone. So had a complete outfit of Archie's, the money, a gold watch, a cigarette case, all amounting to about $200.

It was like a pail of cold water on Archie. He grinned and then his mouth set. He didn't notify the police. He told Harriet about it. "I'll get that louse," he said, "and I'll put him in prison for the limit. Five years, I hope. I'm no sucker."

Harriet didn't say anything because she could see Archie was very angry and Archie started his hunt. Willie hadn't given much information about himself. He had said that he spent some of his time in the Public Library, that he slept in flop houses and Mills hotels and that he had a girl in Orange, N. J. He had even given her name.

For six weeks, Archie made sevvictim. He walked up to him, grabbed him by the arm and marched him to a policeman.

He recited his tale to Harriet with a great deal of self-appreciation. He thought he'd been a pretty good detective. But Harriet was cold. She thought Archie should now forget the whole thing. After all, he had caught his man and he could well afford losing $200.

"What?" Archie protested. "And let that louse get away with making a sucker out of me. I'll see that the judge throws the book at him."

"Archie," Harriet said sadly, "I couldn't marry a man like that. Hate wrecks people. You must forgive! If you can't and insist on prosecuting this poor man, I'll have to break our engagement."

"All right," Archie said, "give me my ring."

He didn't like it, but what else could he do? In the week that elapsed before Willie went to trial for grand larceny, Archie was very unhappy. He wished there was something he could do about it. He wished that Harriet would get sensible. He even wished he had never seen Willie Glubb. But he never considered dropping the case.

Under Archie's spirited statement of his case, the jury found Willie guilty and the judge gave him three years. Archie went home, not triumphant, but sad. He'd paid off that rat but he'd lost his girl.

A telegram was under his door.

"Dearest," it said, "I still believe you are harsh, but you can't help it. Something must have happened in your childhood to turn you bitter. I've missed you terribly. Can you call me up? Harriet."

Archie picked up the telephone and dialed her number.

THE END.

Don't miss Alma and Paul Elmer's amusing short story on this page tomorrow.

WINANT'S CHANCE TO DRESS UP

By Leonard Lyons

Ambassador Winant

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—A few months ago John G. Winant, whose constant comparison to Abe Lincoln even includes his inattention to tailors, lunched with Ben Cohen of the Corcoran-Cohen team. Ben's preoccupation with government matters leaves him no time to compete for sartorial honors. Both men discussed the difficulty they have in getting the proper clothes. "Maybe the tailors in London can make me look presentable," said the Lincolnesque Winant. "And maybe some day I'll go with you," added the scholarly Cohen, "and see what London tailoring can do for me, too." They both laughed and parted. . . . Three weeks ago Winant, appointed as American Ambassador to London, phoned Cohen. "Remember that talk we had about our going to London some day?" Winant reminded. "Well, you're coming with me. You're my new Counselor at the Embassy."

REGRET: Alexander Ince, who published Stage magazine, lost $70,000 of his own money when that venture was discontinued last week. Ince paid all his employees their final salaries out of his personal funds. . . . "I guess you're sorry you ever started publishing," Ince was consoled. . . . "No, I'm not sorry," he answered. "I'm not sorry for three reasons. One—I had a lot of fun. Two—I learned a lot; too much. And Three—A man's GOT to live."

COMBAT: George Earle, the American Minister to Bulgaria, who clashed with a Nazi officer in Sofia last week, seldom has lost a fight. He once went to school with Bill Bullitt—was challenged by the boy who later became Ambassador to Moscow and Paris—and was licked. Earle didn't forget that. He went to a gym, took some boxing lessons, challenged Bullitt and, this time, won.

NAME: Harold Gary of "Crazy With the Heat" sat in Lindy's last week-end. A waiter walked by paging: "Mr. Garfinkel! Telephone for Mr. Garfinkel!" . . . Gary stopped him and asked: "Which Garfinkel do you mean—John Garfield, Benny Fields or me?"

CHATTER: Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will make a Victor recording of Alice Duer Miller's "The White Cliffs of Dover" . . . Sidney Kingsley, who is completing his play about Jefferson, does all his writing now in the afternoons at a table in the Stork's club room.

ENTERPRISE: For the first time in the city's history a night club revue will be starred at Carnegie Hall. Next month the combined shows of Cafe Society Uptown and Cafe Society Downtown will offer a Sunday concert at Carnegie. . . . It will feature the best talent of each cafe and will include Hazel Scott, the Golden Gate Quartet, Eddie South and Kenneth Spencer.

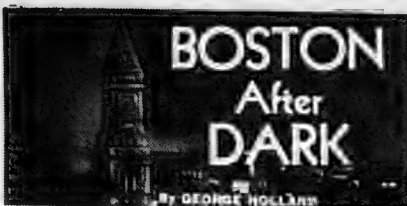

ROMANCE: A Frenchman who recently arrived here watched Henri Bernstein dancing a tango. . . . "You dance well," he told the distinguished playwright. "As for me—well, fortunately, I no longer have to worry about dancing and the ladies. I'm too old!" . . . "Stop boasting," Bernstein told him. "You're not too old. It's just that you're a bad lover and won't admit it."

WARNING: John O'Hara, author of "Pal Joey," sat in a night club with Robert Benchley. O'Hara wore his favorite sports jacket—a tweed Brooks model. John began to button it—all the buttons, including the top one, which almost covered his bow tie. . . . "Stop right there," said Benchley. "You'll cut off your circulation."

WORK: John Biggers, the $1-a-year head of the Production Division of the OPM, has been working these past months from early morning until far into the night. He has placed his secretarial and stenographic staff on shifts to avoid overtime. . . . Last week Biggers was invited to a dinner party at the home of William S. Knudsen. He had arrived at his office that day at 8:30 a. m., worked until 7:15 p. m., when he suddenly remembered the dinner. He started to rush home to dress—and encountered W. Averell Harriman, who is preparing for his mission to London. . . . "Now, now," the calm Harriman reproached Biggers. "Since when does the OPM work half day?"

LYNN FONTANNE

THE GREATEST STIMULUS The nightclub business has had in years is the present custom of saying "so long" to the Army rookies with music. . . . Not a night goes by without at least one large party in each of the downtown nightclubs, with one of the Selective Service heroes, or a volunteer, as guest of honor. . . . The Coconut Grove had three such going-away parties last night. . . . But it's a similar story all over town.

THE THEME SONG of these parties is an item called "Goodbye, Dear, I'll Be Back in a Year!" . . . (And there's no "I hope!" after the title) . . . "Goodbye, Dear, I'll Be Back in a Year, 'Cause I'm in the Army Now," is the opening of the song's chorus. . . . The number is a trifle "corny," or "from schmaltz," as the musicians say. . . . But it's getting a terrific play and the small publishing firm which launched the tune is on the way to the big money.

VARIETY SPECULATES this week on the unprecedented lack of theatrical attractions scheduled for Boston, with "Cabin in the Sky" and Paul and Ruth Draper (in an evening of dance) as the only shows set for the near and far future. . . . The trade paper says that producers may be avoiding Boston in favor of Washington, Philadelphia and Baltimore. . . . Variety says Boston "faces virtually a showless spring." . . . One of the best theatrical cities in the country, Boston would seem to deserve more consideration.

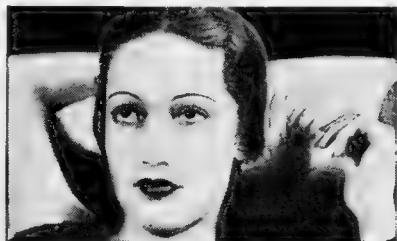

IF ANYONE OWNS a seaworthy schooner, pleasure or tramp, this column knows of a prospective customer—if the sales price is right. . . . The handsome sailor of the films, Stirling Hayden, has been covering the New England waterfront for days in an attempt to find a craft to his liking.

IT WAS WHILE STIRLING was scouring the Newport area in search of a two-master that an incident occurred which when Hollywood hears about it will cause some consternation among the darlings of the silver sheet. . . . Mr. Hayden, squired by his chum, Larry O'Toole, the artist, happened to pass a theater where his film, "Virginia," was playing.

AN OBLIGING YOUNGSTER, Stirling thought it might help the Newport theater manager if an unexpected, added attraction were to be offered the customers. . . . But the picture was ending, and hundreds of patrons—many of them U. S. sailors, were leaving the theater.

STIRLING INTRODUCED HIMSELF to the manager, nevertheless, and that gentleman overcame his initial disbelief in time to rush to the stage and make an announcement that he had a surprise for his customers. . . . Then Stirling was introduced. . . . For nearly an hour, the good-natured Mr. Hayden was kept busy signing autographs for the gobs. . . . (They kept calling him, "Skipper," by the way).

GETTING BACK TO A SCHOONER (a schooner with sails), Stirling is eager to get himself a boat because he would like to load on a few of his pals and sail to

DOROTHY LAMOUR

She and Stirling Hayden to Be Co-Stars

Haiti with himself at the wheel, in time for his next picture. . . . The former Gloucester tar is being starred opposite Dorothy Lamour in this one, and Cecil B. De Mille is going to direct.

BEYOND THIS IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVE, though, we learned (at a nice little T-wharf party thrown by Mr. Hayden for a few friends of the press yesteryear) that Mr. Hayden is a bit fed up with recitals of the amazing seamanship of Errol Flynn and George Brent. . . . Flynn has a 75-foot ketch and keeps six in crew. . . . Mr. Hayden would like to race one or both for marbles or money, from Boston to Gloucester, or from Haiti to Honolulu.

Hollywood Today

HER VISIT STIRS HOLLYWOOD

By Louella O. Parsons

Maude Adams

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28.—No visitor to Hollywood (and we've had some celebrated ones lately with Ernest Hemingway and Quentin Reynolds) is causing more enthusiastic anticipation than the expected visit of Maude Adams.

Yes, the darling of the American stage and the immortal "Peter Pan" of all time, is coming out here chaperoning 691 Stephens College students, who this year selected Hollywood for their annual traveling expedition. Whose name has ever meant more to the theater than Maude Adams? The young drama students of Stephens College are lucky indeed to have her guidance.

Joan Crawford was once a student there, and she is on the welcoming committee. One of the highlights of Miss Adams' visit will be a presentation to Bette Davis of a trophy from the entire student body, hailing Bette as the finest screen actress. So naturally Jack Warner and Hal Wallis will also make this visit a memorable one.

GENE MARKEY, as much as anyone I know, never loses his friends. For instance some time ago when Gloria Swanson was in Hollywood, she was Gene's favorite girl friend. Then she married and he married and they parted.

Well, Gene is moving heaven and earth to get Gloria, who still is called Hollywood's epitome of glamour, for one of the top roles in "Tropical Interlude" for Columbia Joan Bennett, who as the world already knows, was once Mrs. Gene Markey, is expected to have the starring role.

Joan and Gene, who are sensible people, continue to be good friends and Joan always consults him because of little Melinda—both because she is a good mother and she knows that Gene loves the little girl, too.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Barbara Allen (Vera Vague) continues to occupy most of Gene Towne's time. He was at the Hollywood Tropics the other eve with her; June Duprez, surprisingly enough, was with Reginald Gardiner at Cro's while her erstwhile boy friend, Randy Scott, was with Liz Whitney; they were among those who applauded Rosario and Antonio.

Betty Grable, who looked mighty cute in a blue sports dress (she was one of the few not in evening clothes) was with George Hart. They all but cheered the two youngsters; Maria Montez was in a party with Marc Connelly; Eddie Gough came in with Countess di Frasso and a crowd; Ria Gable, by the way, arrives today to be Dorothy's house guest.

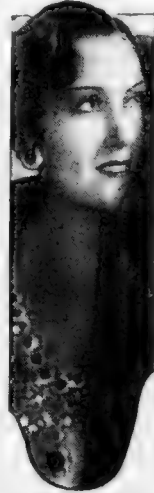

Dorothy Lamour, wearing the diamond ring Greg Bautzer gave her, Pat Morrison with Wyn Rocmore and many others really forwent dancing long enough to applaud the two youngsters and they are just babies; the most interesting evening I have spent in Hollywood in many a day was at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips. They entertained in honor of Dr. Oswald S. Lawsley, famous surgeon whose work has been recognized by governments all over the world.

Dr. Verne Mason was my dinner partner and I have seldom had so intellectual a conversation. Movies were never mentioned once and I was glad that I had married a doctor so I could understand partly at least some of the medical talk.

Frank Morgan has just received a gift of a wild goat from Mexico; Barbara Evans is visiting Bob Stack's brother Jimmie and his wife while Bob is at Lake Tahoe; the rains caved in John Littel's swimming pool; Bill Leedes and Ben Finney, supposedly stranded in Singapore, will clipper in safe and sound next week.

ROSCOE KARNS' boy, Todd, who burst upon surprised Hollywood in "Andy Hardy's Private Secretary" as a full fledged actor, is launched in a big way on his movie career. Some years ago when he was a lad of 14 he told Leo McCarey he wanted to be a movie actor. "Go to school and study dramatic art and then come and see me," McCarey told him.

Well, the upshot of the matter is that Todd presented himself to McCarey the other day and he promptly signed young Karns to a personal long-term contract. He will play one of the leading roles in the next Howard Hughes picture, untitled, but said to be a comprehensive picture of the real Hollywood.

Manners

Lettuce Leaves To Be Eaten

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

I marvel at the number of people—judging by the letters I receive on this question—who consider lettuce leaves as only a decorative background of a salad, such as a fruit or chicken or vegetable salad. For some befogging reason they hesitate to eat the lettuce, thinking it isn't quite proper.

Proper? Of course, it is! Eat your lettuce—and go to the head of the class, not only in manners but in your applied knowledge of vitamins and other dietary data.

If you don't eat this delicious vegetable, you'll appear to be finicky about your food—and that's the thing that isn't proper!

THE RIGHT THING TO DO

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I will appreciate your answering a question in table etiquette for me. Recently I was dining in a hotel restaurant and the vegetables were served on individual dishes about six or seven inches long. I ate the vegetables from these dishes, instead of putting the vegetables on my plate where the meat was. A friend questioned the correctness of this. He served the vegetables from the individual dishes to his dinner plate. Was I correct, or was he?

BETTY

Since good service nowadays has been changed from the service of vegetables in individual side-dishes to the service of vegetables on the dinner plate, the best suggestion is that we serve the vegetables to our dinner plate.

There isn't any special rule about this, and it doesn't make much difference which you do, so long as you do it neatly and deftly. But I advise you to follow your friend's procedure, which is more customary because it's really easier and neater.

Salmon for Meatless Days

By MARTHA LEE

THE LENTEN SEASON brings back each year many food favorites that are served less often during the other seasons. There is no particular reason for this except that we are all apt to associate food dishes with seasons, holidays and special events—so that some are often lost in the rush of everyday meal planning.

Lenten meals are meatless meals and a favorite substitute for meat is fish. Salmon is probably one of the most universally liked varieties of fish because its natural flavor is so well preserved in the canning process.

The food values of canned salmon are as great as that of the fresh fish since only scientific canning methods are used, and these are designed to preserve the food nutrients of the salmon.

This economical food is obtainable in all parts of the country as it may be transported easily when canned.

The week of Feb. 25 to March 7 is "Canned Salmon Week," and we are giving some recipe suggestions to add to your calendar of family favorites. They will pass all your good common sense requirements, namely, economical, easily prepared, wholesome and attractive to both appetite and eye.

SALMON GURRY AU GRATIN

1 cup rice
3 tsp. butter
2 tsp. flour
1 tsp. salt

1. 1 cup dry vermouth
2. 1 cup dry white wine
3. 1 cup milk
4. 1 cup cream
5. 1 cup sharp cheddar cheese
Wash the rice and cook in rapidly boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and wash off excess starch. Melt the butter and stir in the flour and seasonings; add the milk, the liquid and oil from the salmon and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

Grate the cheese and save out 3 tablespoons for the top; combine the rest with the sauce, rice, and the salmon that has been broken into large flakes. Turn into a medium size tiled casserole and sprinkle the remaining cheese on the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

SALMON WITH VEGETABLES

1. 1 cup dry vermouth
2. 1 cup dry white wine
3. 1 cup milk
4. 1 cup cream
5. 1 cup sharp cheddar cheese
Wash the rice and cook in rapidly boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and wash off excess starch. Melt the butter and stir in the flour and seasonings; add the milk, the liquid and oil from the salmon and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

Grate the cheese and save out 3 tablespoons for the top; combine the rest with the sauce, rice, and the salmon that has been broken into large flakes. Turn into a medium size tiled casserole and sprinkle the remaining cheese on the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

HEARTY SALMON SANDWICHES

2 tsp. mayonnaise
1 tsp. prepared horseradish
8 slices toast
1 medium size hard onion
1 large egg
1 cup cold water
Combine the mayonnaise and horseradish and spread a slice of toast with the mixture. Place two thin slices of onion and two slices of tomato on the toast and cover with flaked salmon. Cover with another slice of toast. Fasten together with toothpicks and cut in two with a sharp knife. Make remaining sandwiches in the same way. Makes 4 sandwiches.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

THERE'S an old Negro spiritual that bucks me up mightily when I'm disgusted with myself or have a peeve on my neighbor. Once I heard it sung in a frowzy basement in Harlem.

A more hopeless place, a more bedraggled audience, it would have been hard to find. But that song yanked them up like dynamite—out of poverty and ignorance, hate and disease, into fresh 'green pastures' of hope and pride. And the memory of it has stayed with me ever since.

"All God's chillun got wings!" they say—
"ALL GOD'S CHILLUN GOT WINGS!"

Eyes shining, hands clapping, poor, ragged bodies jiggling with exhilaration—

"All C's chillun got wings!" they shouted with a great, whooping joy. For they weren't just singing to pass the time . . . they were boasting about something.

OUT OF POVERTY and humiliation, out of the injustice that walled them in and the misery that crushed them down, they were shouting one triumphant truth. Never mind what white men did to them! Never mind what dirty deal life had handed their race—or how hopeless the prospect seemed! One thing . . . one glorious, comforting, redeeming thing was true—

"All God's chillun got wings!" Their clothes might be tattered. Their lot might be wretched. But there was one thing about them which nothing could change or spoil—

They had WINGS! All God's chillun had wings!

The poor body wasn't everything. This miserable life wasn't everything. There was something else, that even the poorest had. All God's chillun had part of His own shining power . . . power to believe and rejoice and love and struggle that lifted them, high and free, above any sordidness.

I'VE NEVER forgotten that night. Sitting in on a job like this, the doubts swarm thicker than a dose of hives. Swarm until life holds nothing else but. What's the use of believing in anything, with all this ugly evidence before you? What's the use of betting on anything, with all this weakness, shiftiness, pettiness confronting you?

Particularly your own. That's the worst of it. If you, yourself, could stand steady . . . practice what you preach . . . be honest and gentle and fair—why, you'd manage to carry on. But when you can't even count on yourself!

And then the memory of that Harlem night comes back to me. And my own foolish soul starts singing, too. For, of course, it's true. All God's chillun HAVE got wings. No matter how stupid the life, how vicious or desperate, somewhere in its mangled makings there lie WINGS. Not exactly winning pinions—but some secret pride or faith, some germ of interest which has the power to lift that grounded spirit up and out!

A RECIPE FOR TODAY'S MENU—SCALLOPED POTATOES A LA WALLACE

Select a slice of ham that weighs 1½ pounds. Trim and place in the bottom of a well oiled glass baking dish. Sprinkle the top with one tsp. of dry mustard mixed with 3 tbs. of brown sugar and cover with scalloped potatoes. For these, pare and slice thin four medium-sized potatoes. Allow 2 tbs. of butter, 1 tsp. of minced onion and about 2 cups of milk. Arrange ½ the potatoes in a layer over the ham, dot with butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add the remaining potatoes and pour the milk over all. Cover the dish, bake at 350 deg. F. for ¾ hour. Then remove the cover and continue baking from ¾ to 1½ of an hour longer or until the ham and potatoes are tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Mr. Newman is president of a firm of waterproofing engineers and has been a frequent visitor at Delray Beach in former winters.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Friday, Feb. 28
IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are bright, intelligent, eager to learn, probably fond of scientific subjects. Have both artistic and practical ability; need encouragement and justifiable praise to urge you forward. Likeable personality, willing to listen, sometimes too reticent to express your own views. Learn to act when your intuition and common sense say "go." Originality plus practicality will increase your earning power.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 44.
LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is cobalt blue.

Send 15 cents and large self-addressed stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston Evening American, Box 2228, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide and lucky calendar for the first six months of 1941, giving the day and month you were born.

Love and Marriage

Ashamed of Neighborhood

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There's a very nice girl in the office where I am employed, and I have grown fond of her. But she will never accept a date with me. I always wondered why it was because she acts as if she likes me. So I looked up her home and find that she lives in a very poor neighborhood. I suppose, that's the reason she won't let me come to see her.

I don't know anything about her family, but at the office you couldn't want a more self-respecting and charming person around. She's swell, in my estimation, and I don't care where she lives. Do you think I'd be safe in letting her know that I'd be delighted to call, no matter how poor her apartment or neighborhood are?

JACK.
It's only a surmise on your part that the young lady is sensitive about her neighborhood and the type of house in which she lives. Her reason for not accepting a date with you may be for a wholly different reason. Have patience. There is no place equal to a business office for becoming really acquainted; perhaps, in time, she will reward your fidelity.

Wife Ignores Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For 30 years I've been married to my wife, and have always been good to my family. I am away most of the day at my work, and when I come home it is natural that I'd like a little companionship from my wife. But she seems to have changed and our home

About a year ago my wife's cousin and her husband came to live with us, and they always have so much to talk about, that they ignore me completely. I'm never included in the conversation, and they always change the subject to me. It makes me feel so insignificant.

HEARTBROKEN.

Of course, I don't know the side of this case. But I am sure that you are being treated pretty badly in your own home.

Perhaps the best thing that you can do is to talk to your wife's cousin and her husband and let them know that you may be overlooking the side of the situation.

I suggest you keep on some of your pay and let it build up to a money accumulation as you seem to have very little saving up at home. Also this will make them up to the fact that you're someone, and they'll treat you better.

SOUTHERN CLUB'S ASSEMBLY TONIGHT

Ladies in Oxford towns and their escorts in frock waifcoats will add a picturesque touch to the Southern Club's annual Colonial Night Assembly at the Copley Plaza this evening. This annual affair is given in commemoration of the season surrounding George Washington's birthday, and though it is not designated as a fancy dress party a number of guests will wear Colonial costumes. Members of the receiving line will include Mrs. Harold A. Rice, Mrs. Vassar Welf, Mrs. Charles Whitehouse, Mrs. William B. Freeman and Mrs. Robert E. Green, whose husband, Mr. Green is president of the club and chairman of the dance.

Hostess Tip

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman
The word "ready" should not be used either by a servant announcing a meal, or by a hostess summoning her guests. "Will we go in to dinner?" is then a good form to use. But not "Dinner (or whatever meal) is ready."

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

GINNY RICHMOND and Pete Allen, whose wedding takes place this afternoon, had a little quiz program all their own on the way home from their bridal dinner party last night . . . the quiz consisting of each trying to remember the exact wording of the many toasts proposed by various ushers and bridesmaids . . .

The dinner dance, given in the Balinese Room of the Hotel Somerset, was a gay affair, served at a large T-shaped table decorated with pink camellias and ferns . . . The bride-to-be, a petite brunette post deb, wore a filmy gown of white tulle sprinkled with silver lame coin dots, and she had a large white camellia tucked in her hair . . . Pete, whose full name is Francis Post Allen, Jr., entered into the spirit of the occasion by wearing a big camellia to match in his boutonniere . . .

Bridesmaids, ushers and a few intimate friends all joined in the merry toasting . . . The bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bradley Smith, were in the party together with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rittenbender (Leslie Blake) who have just been married, and a future bridal couple, Elizabeth Richards of New York and Pete Rowan of Wayland . . . They were telling everyone that there are only 145 more days till their wedding . . . In case you are slow at figuring, that makes the date June 28, and the setting will be picturesque Chappaquoit Island off West Falmouth . . .

Among the bridesmaids were Mary Hastings who wore a modish long sleeved black dinner gown trimmed with gold, Mrs. Robert W. Scott in black with a wide red sash, blonde Sally Scudder in white tulle with blue lovers' knots applied on the skirt, and a red camellia in her hair; Mrs. Bruce Scott Old in black lace and net, and Mrs. James Morgan whose black net gown had long tight sleeves and bands of ruching applied to the skirt . . .

Ivory Velvet Gown

FOR THE CEREMONY in the Second Church of Boston this afternoon, Ginny is wearing a striking gown of ivory velvet made with a sweetheart neckline and a train falling from the waist . . . Her veil of blush pink tulle has an oversize of Venice in its front point lace and also is carrying gardenias, freestias and lilies of the valley . . .

Mrs. Old, the former Katherine Day of Newton, is serving as mistress of honor and wearing violet taffeta with a pink tulle hat trimmed with lavender freestias . . . The bridesmaids' outfits are similar in a paler shade of lavender, and all of the attendants are carrying lavender freestias with pink camellias . . .

The reception is taking place at The Country Club where Mrs. Charles F. Richmond, mother of the bride, is receiving in a gown of blue-toned tulle with a violet straw hat trimmed with lilies . . .

Following their wedding trip the couple will live on Beacon st. . . The bridegroom son of Mrs. Elvira Allen of Brookline and Mr. Francis Allen of Springfield, is a Harvard graduate and belongs to Speed and Hasty Pudding Institute of 1939 . . .

Makes Formal Debut

WEARING A GOWN of champagne color net with a full billowy skirt and a white bolero, a plump with champagne color flowers, brims to and various Betty Ayer steps into the social spotlight this evening . . . Betty's formal debut is a dance at the Children Club, presided by a large dinner party for the ushers and a group of her intimate friends . . . She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Ayer of Milton . . .

Her brother, James B. Ayer, Jr., and Kerck Merritt, head the usher staff.

TODAY'S SOCIETY BRIDE is Virginia Richmond of Brookline who exchanges marriage vows with Francis P. Allen, Jr., in the Second Church, followed by a reception at The Country Club. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Franklin Richmond of Brookline.

Soldier Artists

Tea to Open Hub Exhibit

Mrs. Hamilton Osgood heads the committee in charge of the English Speaking Union tea on Wednesday, March 5, at the Institute of Modern Art. The tea celebrates the opening of an exhibition of prints by British artists in service. The museum is lending its gallery for the exhibition which is being sponsored jointly by the Union and the British War Relief Society.

Proceeds from the sale of prints will go to families of the artists in service.

Assisting Mrs. Osgood with plans for the tea are Hon. Mrs. Ewin Montague, Mrs. Robert E. Peabody, Mrs. Charles E. Bacon and Miss Penelope B. Noyes.

Pourers will be Mrs. Samuel Cabot, Mrs. Wilson Inskip of London, Mrs. William Constable and Mrs. Samuel Elliot.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cameron are members of the entertainment committee of the Brae Burn Country Club sponsoring a Sunday evening concert, March 24, by Ethel Hutchinson, Einar Hansen of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Enrico Fabrice, violinello.

The entertainment committee also includes Mr. and Mrs. J. Gould Cook, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Drake, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dwight Morton, and Mr. and Mrs. Cameron S. Thompson. The concert will be followed by tea and a buffet supper.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Hovestad of Marlborough st. are sojourning at the Chalfonte in Atlantic City.

FIVE O'CLOCK SPARKLE... you've just got to have it for those exciting unexpected dates that begin the moment work is over, with no time to dress up. Sparkle, you must, too... if it's the interview for that important job... that luncheon date with a difficult client... tea with the one-and-only... that report to present at the club meeting.

Sparkle begins... with a smooth, glowing complexion that looks as though you had just turned from your mirror... an effect difficult to achieve after a busy day at the office, shopping or dashing from one activity to another.

A "facial pickup" is just the thing for beauty-on-the-run. A noted American cosmetician... who is a front page personality as well in aviation circles... has created just the thing for a quick treatment that leaves the skin refreshed and ready to take a glamorous makeup.

This film mask should be smoothed thinly over your cleansed epidermis... there is no need for massage... simply let it dry thoroughly... then remove the dry masque with bracingly cold water... and you're ready then and there for your cosmetics!

When your skin emerges from this mist-like film masque... you will feel like a new person... for yours is that radiant face in the mirror... sparkling... revitalized... and ready to slay dragons... or to ensnare his heart.

Unlike many masques... this film variety is amazingly easy to use... and takes almost no time... so it is perfect to keep in one's desk or overnight case... and whether there has been a long, tiring day behind you... or a long, dirty trip, the masque will give your face a refreshed radiance that makes the world your oyster!

Superb as most comparable beauty aids... this film masque was conceived by a busy young careerist... for other hurried women... younger and older... for whom it is imperative to look one's vital, glowing best at all times... but for whom long hours in pursuit of beauty at a costly salon are out of the question.

For quick sparkle this cream is the answer... phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, weekdays except Saturdays, or write her care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope to learn where it may be bought.

Drive for Greek Relief Fund

Organized to raise one million dollars for Greek War Relief during the six days from March 25 to 30, the motion picture industry has gone into action enthusiastically, according to Martin J. Mullin, executive head of M. & P. Theaters, who is in charge of the drive in this territory. Adolph Zukor is the national chairman of the amusement industry division.

Highlight of the local drive will be a "sneak preview" of an outstanding Hollywood production, to be shown midnight, Saturday, March 22, at the Metropolitan Theater. Tickets will be on sale at all downtown Boston theaters.

TRY FOR AN Art SCHOLARSHIP

Copy this girl and send us your drawing — perhaps you'll win a COMPLETE FEDERAL COURSE FREE! This contest is for amateurs, so if you like to draw do not hesitate to enter.

Prizes for Five Best Drawings — FIVE COMPLETE ART COURSES FREE, including drawing outfits. (Value of each course, $185.00.)
FREE! Each contestant whose drawing shows sufficient merit will receive a grading and advice as to whether he or she has, in our estimation, artistic talent worth developing.

Nowadays design and color play an important part in the sale of almost everything. Therefore the artist, who designs merchandise or illustrates advertising has become a real factor in modern industry. Machines can never displace him. Many Federal students, both men and girls who are now commercial designers or illustrators capable of earning up to $5000 yearly have been trained by the Federal Courts. Here's a splendid opportunity to test your talent. Read the rules and send your drawing to the address below.

RULES — This contest open ONLY TO AMATEURS, 16 YEARS OLD OR MORE. Professional commercial artists and Federal students are not eligible. 1. Make drawing of girl 5½ inches high, on paper 7 inches high. Draw only the illustration, no other lettering. 2. Use only pencil or pen. 3. No drawings will be returned. 4. Print your name, address (town, county, state), age and present occupation on back of drawing. 5. All drawings must be received by March 31st, 1941. Prizes will be awarded for drawings best in proportion and neatness by Federal Schools Faculty.

New Bill for Gayety Screen

"Crime and Punishment," the Peter Lorre-Marian Marsh co-starring, film drama based on Dostoevsky's great novel, is the major attraction on the Gayety's new screen program, starting today.

Lorre, master of horror roles, portrays Raskolnikov, brilliant student, who graduates from the university with highest honors, but is unable to make a living for his mother and sister. Desperate, he murders an aged pawnbroker, robs her. From then on, there is no peace for him as the cat-and-mouse game goes on between him and the police inspector, who is unable to prove his suspicions.

The co-feature, "Fools of Desire," is the story of a bookkeeper, his light-of-love gold digger and his nagging, unpretty wife.

Special Sunday Feature at Globe

The Globe Theater announces a special Sunday feature when Stajle, Sielanski, Polish stage and screen comedian, will relate his experiences as an officer on a Polish submarine. Sielanski will also be seen in two starring pictures, "Manewr Miloshe" and "Straszny Dwor," on the Globe screen.

'THE STRAWBERRY BLONDE' CAPTURES GAS-LIT FLAVOR OF GAY NINETIES

39

Cagney Film Opens at Met

By PEGGY DOYLE

Remember when "She's all the fudge" was a synonym for glamorous girl... and "Twenty-three, skidoo!" said everything... and a five-cent schooner of beer was an ample thirst-quencher... and "The Band Played On" headed the then non-existent hit parade? Remember?

Well, then, have your Wilhelms waltz you around to the Metropolitan some night this week for a gander at "The Strawberry Blonde," Warner's infectious, heart-warming gas-lit comedy that recaptures the good old days even to that aroma of lager.

And, girls and boys, even if you don't remember those tantalizing pinetries and you're nearer 16 than 60, you'll enjoy this honey of a picture.

It's about a fellow who "don't" take nothing from nobody "cause that's the kind of hairpin" he is and, finally, believing he has been kysped by a pal and life, suddenly discovers he's the victor and the spoils are his.

James Cagney plays this scrappy chip-on-the-shoulder little guy as convincingly as any he's ever played... and what could be fairer than that? His Biff Grimes, who loves his wife but, oh, you strawberry blonde, is one of his most engaging, lovable mugs (only a mug in those days was used only in shaving).

Olivia De Havilland, demure as a daisy in her nurse's uniform, even when she's fibbing that her mother was a bloomer girl, he aunts an actress and she herself a "nicotine-friend" (cigarette-smoker to you) and a believer in free love to the wife.

And if you, too, were getting fed up on her prop smile and her dainty, quainty roles, prepare to see a new Olivia who can flirt outrageously and so provocatively. The strawberry blonde is that ex-brunette, Rita Hayworth, as captivating a cold-heart as you'd find anywhere.

The companion picture, "The Monster and the Girl," is a thriller by Paramount, featuring Paul Lukas, Ellen Drew and Robert Faig.

Henny Youngman in Top Spot On Stage Bill at Keith-Boston

Four days with a five minute option are lined up for Henny Youngman at the Keith-Boston, where he takes the top spot in the new vaudeville bill.

Henny used to make you laugh on the Kate Smith radio hour, and he's even funnier than you thought. There's not much sense in talking about Henny. He doesn't make sense himself. But his gags and patter are new, original and there's a laugh a line.

The network fans will find other favorites of theirs at the Boston. For with an honest-to-goodness strawberry blonde in the middle, the "Smooches" from the Burns and Allen radio hour will be best vocalizing in the spot. The two boys and girls make some slick arrangements of "The Red Fox," "Foggy Day" and "I'm Mr. Nobody." And the boys take the top table out of this vaudeville stuff too.

On the second table, Quigley and Manna's comedies have top roles in the "Smooches" table.

A Vivid Preview of the Greatest Military Attack Ever Planned

HOW HITLER PLANS TO INVADE ENGLAND!

as described by

Vincent Sheean

Sheean, famous war correspondent, has covered every battle front for 15 years and is author of "Personal History" and "Not Peace But a Sword." He saw Barcelona fall, he followed Hitler into Austria and was in Prague after Munich.

HE TELLS—

- Where the Nazis will strike
- How they have rehearsed the invasion... even to efficient drowning
- Why poison gas may be used
- The odds in the sky and the all-important 'ceiling of planes'
- How the Nazis recognize the inevitable German sacrifice
- Hitler's matchless weapon
- What will follow their landing

SUNDAY ADVERTISER

BEEF PRICES HIGH, OTHER FOODS CHEAP

Beef prices remain high, but other meats and foodstuffs are considered good buys at the Fannell Hall Market stalls today.

Rib roasts of pork, middle cuts, are 28 cts. a lb., and pork chops are 30 cts.

Legs of lamb and legs and loin of lamb are 30 cts. a lb.; forequarters, from 15 to 18 cts.; lamb flank for stewing, 5 cts.; rib lamb chops, 50 cts., and kidney lamb chops, 60 cts. Meat dealers are also featuring forequarters of fresh spring lamb, nine to ten ribs, for 52.

PRICES OF FOWL

Fresh fancy turkeys are 35 cts. a lb.; broilers, 35 cts.; chickens, 35 to 38 cts.; capons, 40 to 42 cts.; ducks, 22 to 25 cts. Smoked turkeys, ready to serve, for 75 cts. a lb. and fresh native guinea chickens for $2.50 a pair, are also being offered.

Fresh peas are 15 cts. a lb.; sprouts, 25 cts.; State of Washington rhubarb, 20 cts.; string beans, 25 cts.; California asparagus, 2 1/2 lb. bunches, 65 cts.; yams, 8 cts.; sweet potatoes, 8 cts.; and Maine potatoes, 20 cts.

Fruit dealers are featuring Argentine seedless grapes for 25 cts. a lb.; bananas, 8 cts. a lb.; tangerines, 25 cts. a doz.; strawberries, 25 cts. a pt. box.

Top of the round is 50 cts. a lb.; bottom of the round, 30 to 40 cts.; shloin steak and porterhouse steak, 75 cts.; rib roast of beef, first two ribs, 50 cts.; first three ribs, 45 cts.; and last two ribs, 30 cts.

CORNERED BEEF 30c

Brisket of cornered beef is 30 to 35 cts. a lb.; middle ribs, 25 cts.; whole and half hams, 31 cts.; sweetbreads, 75 cts. a pair; fancy saddle of mutton, 50 cts.; legs of mutton, 25 cts. Fresh calves' liver is 70 cts.; freshly ground hamburger, 30 cts. and up.

Best tub butter is quoted at 40 cts. a lb.; 1/2 lb. prints, 45 cts.; 1/4 lb. prints, 43 cts.; 5 lb. box of light salted, 45 cts. Cream cheese is 38 cts.; sage 30 cts.; mild, 30 cts.; young American, 29 cts.; coon, 40 cts.; domestic Swiss, 45 cts.

Eggs continue to be reasonable, with large eggs selling for 32 cts. a doz.; medium, 27 cts., and Westerns, 25 cts.

ARGENTINE FRUIT

Other articles in fruit this week are Argentine peaches, 50 cts. a doz.; pineapples, 20 to 30 cts.; cooking apples, 7 cts.; grapefruit, 3 and 4 for 25 cts.; South American Bartlett pears, 60 cts.; Comice pears, 90 cts.; Delicious apples, 50 cts.; alligator pears, 25 cts. each.

Ability to Stay Motionless Saves His Life

TALLULA, Ill., Feb. 23 (AP)—James Light, a railroad worker, was alive today because he was able to cling grimly to a ladder for two hours without moving—when a move might have meant death. Light climbed into a giant coal hopper used to replenish locomotive tenders. While he was loosening frozen coal so that it would flow through a chute, a mass gave way, burying him to the neck.

By seizing a ladder rung, Light kept from being submerged. Still jutting dangerously above him, however, were tons of fine wet coal, which threatened to bury him. Trains were halted because it was feared vibration would loosen the coal. Workmen built a protecting timber wall around Light and dug him out. His only injuries were minor bruises.

Tony's Patriotism Goes Too Far, So Police Step In

HOBOKEN, N. J., Feb. 23 (INS)—Tony Farley, 36, today was told by police to hold his patriotism in check.

Police charged that Tony, driving along the Hoboken docks, mistook three Dutch seamen for Fifth Columnists and threatened them with a BB gun.

The non-English speaking seamen, frightened and bewildered, were "rescued" when police, attracted by the commotion, arrived on the scene.

Farley was released after receiving a sharp warning against directing his patriotism in the wrong channels.

MONEY TO LOAN

Quit Revere License Board

Resignations of two of three members of the Revere licensing board were revealed today by Daniel J. Gillen, secretary to Mayor Raymond E. Carey, who is out of town.

Both men were appointed by former Mayor Lawrence J. Gillis and their terms of office expired last night.

Those who resigned are: Joseph M. Burke, brother-in-law of Gillis, appointed in 1939 for two years, and Charles Nelson, appointed in 1940 for a year.

Bill Corum Says:

STRUB FOLLOWED QUAKE'S RAINBOW TO POT OF GOLD

Quizzes about everything, including the age of Ann, bring the rage, we wonder how many of you sports fans could answer this one:

What is the name of the man now prominent in another sport who sold one of the biggest "lemons" in baseball to a New York club?

The player turned out to be one of the most pitiful figures in the history of sport.

What was his name?

What happened to him?

Was his punishment justified by the published facts?

You won't have to turn over to the next page or stand on your head with a mirror to find the right answers.

Asking the question is just a way of breaking into today's brisk little essay on this, that and the other thing.

The man who sold the ball player is Dr. Charles H. Strub, president and general manager of fabulous Santa Anita Park, beneath the Sierra Madre Mountains near Los Angeles.

The player's name was Jimmy O'Connell.

Strub was reported at the time to have got $75,000 for him from the late John McGraw of the Giants.

A nervous kid, said to have been the "Patsy" for older poker players and dice jostlers on, and attached to the club, O'Connell never got started as a big leaguer.

Judge Landis kicked him out of organized baseball as a result of the Heinie Sand affair, about which practically the only testimony ever given out to the public was that "there'd been a lot of kidding going on" during the Giants-Phillies series that produced the quickly-quieted scandal, and that a coach named Cosy Dolan "couldn't remember."

There probably was some kidding going on, since the Giants scarcely needed to "approach" Sand and the pitiful Phillies to assure themselves of that pennant. But Landis wasn't kidding with O'Connell.

Quite a lot of people, in and out of baseball, always figured Jimmy was "The Goat." Yet if he was innocent, he failed to make much of a fight to prove it, and the last I heard of him, he was driving a laundry wagon in California.

Doc Also Went in for Bridgework

There is no record, so far as I know, of Dr. Strub ever giving O'Connell any part of that alleged $75,000 purchase price, either. But the Doctor also did a bit of bridgework in his time. He started life as a dentist in San Francisco and when his work failed to withstand the earthquake satisfactorily, he moved on to Sacramento.

There he played second base, and for some years thereafter the exigencies of the dental profession took him wherever there was a team that needed a hard hitting young infielder.

Strub saw his first horse race at the historic old Emeryville track, where an ambitious young newspaper cartoonist first attracted attention by picking an 100-to-1 shot named Billard Ball in his drawings of the track and the characters on the ferryboat that carried the fans there.

From Fisher's facile pen in time came "Mutt & Jeff." Many years later, when "Mutt & Jeff" were growing old and tired and getting ready to retire, Fisher had a friend and young assistant named Ken Kling, whom he advised to try the racing strip idea.

Kling took the idea to a paper in Baltimore, but with a new twist. He was supposed to pick losers to prove how difficult it was to beat the races and to have the failure of these horses to win break up homes, romances, businesses, etc., etc.

Figuratively sticking a pin in the entries for his first cartoon, Kling picked a horse. It won. The next day he tried again. The horse won at a whopping price. The third day it was the same.

This went on for almost a week. Just when Kling was about to give up his idea in disgust, figuring that every day his strip was a flop, the managing editor of the paper came dashing into the cartoonist's room.

"Where is that fellow Kling?" he bellowed. "He's a wonder. He must sleep with those horses. Why, he can't pick anything but winners!"

It took all Ken's persuasive powers to convince the M. E. that he didn't have some wonderful inside info. Which nobody ever really had around a race track, of course. Or, at any rate, not for long.

Even Ken found that out in time, though he got a wonderful run at it, and, like "Unlucky Charley" Howard, he couldn't seem to miss for a long time.

So "Jojo and Asbestos" were born. In a sense direct descendants of "Mutt & Jeff," in spite of what may appear to be a slight confusion in color.

The Seed for Plenty of Orchids

Thus does the strange pattern of life work itself out, bit by bit, gay cloth and drab.

It may well have been another 100-to-1 shot at Emeryville that first set Doc Strub wondering how many teeth a man would have to fill to get to be a millionaire. Thereby planting, however deep and remote and unconsidered at the time, the seed of the idea from which Santa Anita was to flower.

And friends, what a blossom!

A million a day in the machines and live forever. On a Saturday, out there rain or shine, and mostly rain of late, they just bail up the folding money like timothy hay off the East forty.

Incidentally, the Doctor is running another little benefit and clambake for poor Charlie Howard come Saturday. They call it the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. But I know better. Howard's horses have taught me my lesson. It's just another hot time in the old town for Charlie. "Oh, Mioland, My Mioland" will be the theme song.

DR. C. H. STRUB

Jimmy Dunn First Coach On Army List

By WALTER KILEY

America's call to arms has finally reached down into New England's football coaching ranks and No. 1 on the list will probably be Jimmy Dunn of Northeastern University.

Coach Dunn hasn't yet been called. But he is momentarily expecting the summons and is laying his plans accordingly.

It will be as 2d Lieut. James Dunn, not as Priv. Dunn, that the Husky mentor will join Uncle Sam's uniformed forces. Because Jimmy holds his commission in the Reserve Officers Corps and is not eligible for the draft.

MAY BE IN TANK CORPS

Dunn secured his second lieutenantcy in the R. O. T. C. at Western Maryland College and is now in the infantry reserve.

But when called to the colors he may be assigned to the tank corps of the First Corps Area, to which he was shifted from the Third Corps Area in 1934.

Northeastern's coach was one of the prize football pupils of Dick Harlow of Harvard when the Crimson coach was turning out formidable gridiron teams at Western Maryland. Dunn was a standout fullback, co-starring with the brilliant Bill Shepherd, a backfield combination which caused so much havoc with Boston College in the pre-Frank Leahy days.

HELPED HARLOW

Jimmy graduated from Western Maryland in 1934 and coached as Dick's assistant the following season. When Harlow moved on to Harvard, Jimmy went with him, staying as backfield coach at Cambridge for two years before succeeding Al McCoy as head coach at Northeastern.

He ranks as a professor at Northeastern, teaching physical education; is married and has a 2½-year-old daughter.

However, family ties which might mean deferment under the conscription act, have no bearing when it comes to the calling up of officer material.

Dunn is satisfied that the call to arms will come shortly. When it does it will create another of the unprecedented number of vacated head coaching positions in New England college football ranks.

7-½ High Jump Won't Count

EUGENE, Ore., Feb. 24 (INS)—Lee Steers, University of Oregon high jumper, today held an unofficial world indoor record with a prodigious exhibition leap of 7 feet ½ inch.

Because there were no A. A. U. judges present, the jump will not displace the official indoor mark of 6 feet 9½ inches.

Outboard Race Classic Tomorrow

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Speedy outboard racers and hydroplanes will churn the waters of Biscayne Bay tomorrow and Sunday in one of the nation's oldest continuous regattas, an event highlighted this year by competition for two $500 trophies.

The fifth annual Judge Emil Auerbach Memorial Trophy race, formerly held at Abasco Island in New Jersey and moved South this year for the first time, will be a co-feature of the 23th Biscayne Bay Regatta.

The other main event will be further competition for the $5000 Col. E. H. E. Green high point outboard trophy, for which points are awarded at all officially-sanctioned Florida regattas.

Xavier Choice

In Court Turney

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Feb. 28 (AP)—Undeafed in regular season or tournament play, Xavier University ruled as favorite today to win the eighth basketball tournament of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Bees' Entire Squad Starts Work In New Santone Field Tomorrow

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 28—With the exceptions of Babe Dahlgren and Earl Averill, who are en route from the Pacific Coast, all the Bees who have been ordered to report here to Manager Casey Stengel will have checked in at the Plaza Hotel by tomorrow morning.

There are two players on the Bees' roster, whose transportation to camp have been cancelled. Due to the fact that waivers must be received on these players before they can be sent out, Manager Stengel refused to divulge their names. He hopes to secure jobs for them before announcing names.

Sibby Slett and Chet Rose, en route to Buffalo and met Max West, "Whitey" Wietelmann and Heine Majewski last night in St. Louis. Slett and Rose drove from California to his wife's former home at Ft. Wayne, Ind., where he boarded a train for the Mound City.

NEW FIELD READY

Berna Rowell, who proved such a sensation at second base last year, is on his way to camp from Citronelle, Ala. He may pick up Claude Wiborn, the outfielder, who lives in Virginia at New Orleans. George Metkovich and Ralph Yunker are supposed to be coming from the Coast by train but the latter has driven East for the past two springs and they may be coming by auto, which isn't so good in the opinion of Pres. Bob Quinn and Casey Stengel.

Don Manno, the rookie outfielder who climaxed a Bees-Brooklyn game with a grand slam home run, has been visiting friends in Buffalo and St. Louis and is due tonight, either by train or car.

Gene Moore will drive here from his home, which is only 280 miles north of the Mission City.

The Bees hold their final workout at Alamo Stadium tomorrow and will move into Pittman-Sullivan Park tomorrow.

PITCHERS FIT

The battery men, who have been working since last Monday, are in great shape. They've all worked hard, limbered up on the cinder track every morning before throwing and finished up by chasing fungoes.

"I believe that the pitchers and catchers are now ready to go," said Casey Stengel this morning before going out to the stadium. "They've had almost a week to get their legs in shape. And, I'll say this for them that every mother's son has been hearing down every day.

"I've been yelling murder because this new field wasn't ready when we came to town. But to be really truthful I'm just as glad we've been forced to work on the gridiron at Alamo Stadium for I didn't want the battery men to hit this week.

"All pitchers 'ave to hit. There isn't any exception. But, tell me how many of them make a practice of breaking up ball games with their bats. Few.

"If we'd have been out at the new park, those banjo hitters would have spent the week spraying baseballs all over the neighborhood and wouldn't have benefited one bit from their efforts. But it would have cost the club a pretty penny to replace the balls they lost.

"Out at Alamo Stadium, the boys spent the hours pitching and catching, in pepper games and chasing fungoes. Let me tell you that the boys do not relish taking off after those long, high and far away flies that George Kelly, Bob Coleman and Jack Onslow hit them. They'd rather do the hitting with some 'sugar bush' kid pitching to them.

"So, starting tomorrow, the pitchers will toss them up for batting practice to the late comers. And that won't be so good, from their viewpoint, but as you and I know we're all down here to get a ball club ready for the National League pennant race not on a holiday."

B. C. Nine Opens Against Huskies

Boston College's 1941 baseball schedule lists 21 games, opening with Northeastern on April 15 and closing the season with New Hampshire June 15.

The schedule:
April 15 Northeastern; 16 Fordham; 20, Boston University; May 2, Tufts; 3, St. John's; 4, Boston University; 8, Johns; 9, New York U.; 10, Fordham; 12, Villanova; 14, Providence; 17, Providence; 24, Amherst; 27, Northeastern; 28, Tufts; 30, Holy Cross; June 2, Boston Hall; 7, Brown; 9, Holy Cross; 10, Holy Cross; 14, New Hampshire.

The freshmen will play nine games, starting home and away series with Northeastern, Holy Cross, Boston University and Providence.

Johnston has arranged a game to be played in Boston.

Get Off, Mud Choice In Widener Classic

By DAVE WILSON

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 28—The eyes of millions of turf addicts tomorrow will be focused on the two Winter classics—the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, richest race in the world—and the $50,000 Widener Handicap here.

In each a standout choice looms—Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech being considered nothing less than "a mortal lock" to win the Widener, provided the track is fast, while Mioland, the Axis Ace, shapes up equally superior to the field named for the Pacific Coast special.

Should Kid Jupiter, however, pay another unclean visit to Hialeah and thus contrive to change the complexion of the track from fast to muddy then the entire complexion of the Widener may be shuffled.

Bimelech cannot "mud." He won't run unless the strip is lightning. This applies also to Greentree Stable's dash, Bimby's main contender.

The solid mud horse of the Widener field, Clark M. Ranch's Get Off and he will carry our hopes for victory should such going prevail.

MEADE LAUDS BIMBY

Bimelech looked well high invincible in winning his 1941 debut in the Eastern Airlines purse from High, Shot Put and Gino Rex a week back. He was never out of a stranglehold. Don Meade, who rode the Bradley champion, said Bimby won more easily on that occasion than any horse he had ever ridden before.

And Meade's judgment of horses is to be highly respected.

The Bradley colt will be required to make liberal weight concessions, a task certainly not beyond him. He demonstrated this strikingly in his triumphal march to fame as a 2 and 3-year-old.

In short, Bimby should have no excuse. Given a fast track, we say it will be his race every step of the journey.

HOWARD LUCK HOLDS

The proverbial Howard luck again promises to hold good in that the famous weather prophet, Dr. Duck, predicts a muddy track for the Santa Anita. Mioland is perhaps one of the greatest gallopers in years.

And, barring the worst sort of luck imaginable, he figures to give Mr. Howard his third straight 100-grand pot of gold, the San Francisco sportsman having won the last two runnings with Kayak and Sea Biscuit.

Our esteemed colleague, Bobby Ahearn, who is penning turf topics in the Golden Coast, best explains, in a letter, the inside dope on the race. See Bobby:

"Mioland is as good as any horse could be. Should the track be off—he's any price, I mean even money would be a good one. Although he didn't win by much in the San Antonio his victory was impressive.

"Tom Smith plans to keep Porter's Cup in the barn and is now pointing that fellow for the Kentucky Derby. Should the track be fast there is one horse in my opinion that stands a chance to upset the applicant.

"That is Sceptida, the ugly duckling that won the 1940 Santa Anita Derby."

Agent Chaledon, Bobby writes: "Chaledon's chances in the Big Race should be 100 to 1 instead of 3 to 1, following his recent setback in the San Antonio. Whitey Whitcomb, his trainer, told me that himself. He ought to know. Pass him up."

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 28 — BILL McKECHNIE, manager of the world's champion Cincinnati Reds, has made it unanimous. He is picking his club to win the National League pennant again this year. Bill is delaying his World Series choice for a late September or early October release.

"I believe we have a stronger club than we had in 1940 and so should repeat our National League triumph," said McKechnie as he directed the early training program of the Reds here. "Our club has shown improvement each year since I left Boston to take charge of it.

"We reached the height of our success last year when we won the world's championship as well as the National League pennant. I hope Jimmy Wilson, who stole the only base in the series and who went in and caught for the Reds when our backstop department was wrecked, has a good season with the Cubs as manager. Jimmy is a keen baseball student, knows the strength and weaknesses of rival players, and is a miracle man with pitchers.

"It was Wilson who converted 'Bucky' Walters from a third baseman into a pitcher."

I mentioned to McKechnie that he had some pretty good pitching talent with the Reds.

Bill smiled good naturedly.

"That's our strongest point," he declared. "I don't think many people will dispute my statement that we have the best pitching staff in the league.

"We had good pitching in 1940, but our hurlers will be even better during the coming season. Johnny Vander Meer is back and he looks as if he has brought his amazing pitching magic with him.

"At Indianapolis Johnny staged a fine comeback, and when he joined us last September he looked good. He won three and lost one game. He pitched the 12-inning game that gave us the pennant."

Vander Meer was once honored by the Boston Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association for his feats as a no-hit pitcher. Any youngster who showed as much brilliant pitching as Vander Meer in his early days in the National League should be able to stage a successful comeback.

Jimmy Gleason Will Give Batting Punch

JIMMY GLEASON, who used to chase flies for the Cubs, will be in the outfield for the Reds.

"Jimmy Gleason is a .300 hitter and he should give added punch to our club," declared McKechnie. "We need a little more hitting to help along our fine pitching staff.

"Speaking of pitchers, we shall also have Monte Pearson who used to be with the Yanks. Pearson has had plenty of experience and he should prove a valuable man for us."

The Reds have three of the greatest pitchers in the National League in Paul Derringer, Junior Thompson and "Bucky" Walters. It is the opinion of Jimmy Fox and many other ball players that Derringer is the No. 1 pitcher in the big leagues.

Jim Turner, formerly with the Bees, Whitey Moore and Joe Beggs will also be in there pitching for the Reds.

It is no wonder that the shrewd McKechnie is already predicting that his club will win the pennant.

McKechnie Will Offset Wilson's Loss

McKECHNIE personally will offset the loss of Jimmy Wilson to the Cubs. Bill is one of the best students of batters in either league, and in crucial moments of games calls every pitch made by his star flingers.

McKechnie is a great newspaper reader. He prefers the play-by-play stories of games. He makes notes as to how each batter is hitting. This gives him valuable material that he imports to his pitchers before games.

From his position on the bench, McKechnie calls the pitches in tight moments of games. Even Paul Derringer is willing to accept McKechnie's judgment on such matters.

Since going to Cincinnati, McKechnie has had a free hand in the selection of ball players. Bill was with Warren Giles, business manager, at Rochester, and they are on friendly terms.

McKechnie knows baseball values, and he has done well with players who were pushed around a bit by other clubs.

The case of Billy Werber is in point. The Reds needed an infielder, and McKechnie felt Werber could fill the bill. McKechnie was told that Werber was temperamental and that he might be difficult for him to handle. Bill chuckled, and said that all athletes were more or less temperamental.

"As long as Werber can field his position and get his share of hits he can be as temperamental as he wishes," said the canny Scot. Werber's playing has been one of the important factors in the forward rush of the Reds.

Dodgers Will Be Shooting at Reds

BEFORE LEAVING Florida for the Dodgers training camp at Havana, Cuba, Leo Durocher told me that the Reds would be the club the Dodgers would have to beat if they were to win the pennant.

"I am not saying we shall win the flag," declared Durocher, "but to do so we must beat the Reds. McKechnie has a well rounded out ball club, and almost enough pitchers for two ordinary teams. We'll be in there doing our best from the start, and if the Reds do any slipping we may be the club to win."

Meanwhile all McKechnie is worrying about are possible injuries. Barring a run of bad accidents, Bill says he will be seeing you at the 1941 World Series in his capacity as manager of the National League champions.

Title-Bound Kaplan Big Favorite

Mike Kaplan gets a chance to meet Fritz Zivic for the world's welterweight championship if he whips Irish Eddie Dunn convincingly in the feature 10-round bout of a Goodwin A. C. boxing show tonight at the Boston Garden.

Biding his time before stepping in with Zivic for the world's 147-pound crown, the Roxbury boxing master takes a long gamble in angling with rough, tough Mr. Dunn, but he's a favorite to come through.

It will be in the nature of a stunning upset if Dunn upsets the Kaplan apperant and Mike will take no chances. He intends to let loose with both guns from the opening bell, not only to get rid of Mr. Dunn swiftly and authoritatively but also to give the local fans a treat.

Hundreds of Kaplan admirers have been shouting to see him in action again. He has not been in a local ring for some 18 months and then he was just reaching his peak, thumping Jimmy Leto and the Cocoa Kid.

Irish Eddie Dunn is coming to Boston instead of Vic Dellecru. The latter suffered a cut over the eye in a tuneup fight Tuesday.

Dunn, who has split with Dellecru in two bouts and beaten Steve Beloise and Joey Ferrara, willingly responded when Matchmaker Rip Valenti decided he was the best available welterweight for Kaplan to meet.

Valenti has arranged a sparring program of 40 rounds with a 10-round semi-final bringing together Able Abe Denner from the West End and Nat Littin, N. Y., who has whipped Joey Archibald among others.

Sixes on the card will be: Lefty LaChance, Lisbon, Me., vs. Harold Harris, Malden; Eddie DeAngelis, Revere, vs. Earl Roy, Bristol, Ct., and Al Sforza, North End, vs. Bob Allard, Lynn.

Bushnell Sees New IC Marks

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (INS)—A

Bushnell director of the I. C. 4-A track and field championships is said today he expects to see at least half a dozen new meet records hung up.

"We never have had so many closely-matched teams as we have this year and while New York University, the defending champions, and Fordham, are expected to fight it out for the team title, it would not surprise me if Pittsburg were to upset either or both of the leading contenders," he declared.

With more than 20 teams entered in some of the relay races, it will be necessary to hold trial heats.

MEN'S CLOTHING—WHITE'S MEZZANINE

Sox Rookie Performed For Hitler

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 23—If big Bill Sayles never makes the grade in big time, he at least has the consolation of being the only member of the Red Sox who ever played ball before Adolf Hitler.

The big right-handed rookie pitcher was something of an infant prodigy (like Waite Hoyt) when he attended Washington High School in Portland, Ore., way back there in 1934.

Bill entered University of Oregon in '35 and was such a student he was picked on the All-America (collegiate) teams selected for the 1936 Olympics. Good old Leslie (How I can hit those left-handers) conducted that tour, you may recall.

"We played in the Olympic Stadium in Berlin before 100,000 spectators," Bill recalled. "And that, if you check with Moe Berg, you'll find to be the largest crowd ever to see a ball game anywhere, even in Japan."

BORED GOOD PITCHING

"Funny thing about that game," Bill smiled. "The diamond was laid out in such a way that there was a terribly short right field, and of course that was just where the Little Corporal would be sitting."

"During batting practice I hit a couple of long ones into left field (Bill can hit), and immediately 5 uniformed flunkies came tearing down out of the right field stands saying we couldn't hit to right field because Der Fuehrer was there."

"When we saw the ammunition they toted we knew they were right."

"It was a great game," Bill reminisced.

"The spectators booed me every time I struck out a batter, and it was easy to guess that all they wanted to see were those long flies."

"I didn't know what they were saying but it sounded very ominous, and I said to myself: 'Bill, old boy, you've got to let them hit, and yet you can't let them hit to right field.'"

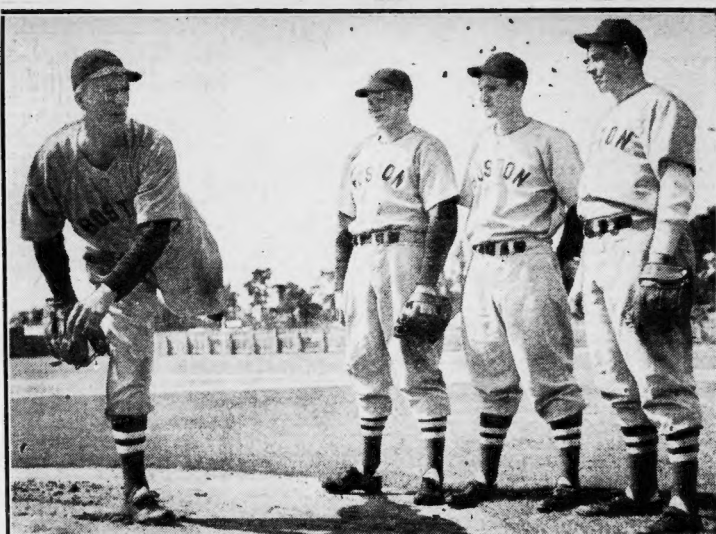

"So I'd keep the ball on the handles of the right-hand batters and pitch away from the left-handers because if ever one of them hit a dinky pop into Der Fuehrer's box, I'd probably have wound up in a concentration camp and not be getting all this nice Florida sunshine."

ARM GIVEN O. K.

Sayles, a 6-2 right-hander, is getting his last chance with the Sox. Still, he's only 23. He joined the club in the spring of '33, not waiting to finish college, and already has been farmed out three times.

Last year he came up with a sore arm the second day in camp, and was useless to the Sox, to Little Rock and to himself.

He had to quit pitching in July because the arm got worse instead of better but he visited Dr. Hyland in St. Louis on his way to Oregon and Hyland pronounced him O. K. after a series of arm sprouts.

Hassett Through as Major Leaguer

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 23—When the entire squad checks in, the Bees will have no less than nine first basemen in camp. Count 'em, Babe Dahlgren, Buddy Hassett, Max West, Ed Carnett, Frank McElyea, Don Manno, Lou Gremp, George Metkovich and Johnny Cooney. Eddie Carnett is just about as good looking an athlete as you can find in any camp. He's listed as a south-paw pitcher, but he can play the outfield like nobody's business and is also a very nifty first sacker, along with being a speed merchant who can swing the willow in great style.

After a short sojourn over at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he placed third in the wreaths on the grave of the late Paul Shannon, Peter McKenna, one of the few living members of the old Royal Rooters, has joined the Bees. Peter is going to Mexico when the Bees play three games with the St. Louis Browns at Monterey. He and Gene Mosher, the pro at the Toy Town Tavern in G. C., who winters between here and Mexico, are old townies. They were both born in Woburn.

All young pitchers are making a close study of Wes Ferrell's style. . . . Lou Gremp will be tried out and the bat on the recommendation of Rudy Hulselt, who managed the rookie last season. . . . Casey Stengel is sold on Gremp as a hitter and therefore is anxious to find a spot for the youngster. . . . Bob Coleman, Jack Onslow and Rudy Hulselt are all trying to snare Milt Spahn, the 18-year-old southpaw pitcher from Buffalo. The kid is a real prospect.

George Barnicle is sold on the advice he received from Wes Ferrell concerning the proper way to grip the ball—and, when to grip it. . . . Among them, Casey Stengel, George Kelly and Johnny Cooney will be able to improve Babe Dahlgren's batting. But they'll make a very careful study of Babe's form before offering any suggestions. . . . Big Frank McElyea, the rookie first sacker up from Owensboro of the Kitty League, who is a half-inch taller than George Kelly, can really carry the mail. . . . He's not only fast but unusually shifty for a 200-pounder.

Jack Onslow was laid low for a few days from an ulcerated tooth, now "Doc" May pops up with one. . . . Maybe it's the climate. . . . The pitchers and catchers have been hounding by George Kelly and Bob Coleman. They all run miles every day chasing fungos. . . . Despite the cold weather, they'll be in better shape when the rest of the squad reports than they would be after three weeks in Florida. . . . They are running on solid turf and their legs are even at this early date in great shape.

Other than to admit that he and Bob Quinn are out to strengthen the Bees, Casey Stengel has turned a deaf ear to all questions concerning who might be traded. . . . Miss Alice Ahern, who came here from Boston with Margaret and Mary Quinn, is on her way home. . . . Also Fr. John H. Healey, who has been in camp for a week, has left for Rochester, N. Y., where he'll hold a mission next week.

Judging from the numerous auto accidents, club owners would be wise to insist upon players traveling to baseball camps by train. . . . The clubs pay the fares, berths and meals for players who travel by car but in order to save a few dollars at the risk of their lives, the players drive over the road and have camp hangers-on take their cars North. . . . Right now it looks like Buddy Hassett is on his way out. . . . Bob Quinn has been trying for more than a month to land Buddy with a major league club but without success. . . . Buddy had a tough year last season, but there's still plenty of good baseball in the boy from the Bronx.

Art Johnson was lucky he wasn't injured when he collided with Stan Andrews recently while chasing fungos. . . . It would be a blow to the Bees if the Winchester southpaw was forced out by an injury of a serious nature. . . . Johnson got a laugh out of Casey Stengel yesterday when Ole Case asked him, "Do you think 'bat the batters can read you?" "I don't know where they can or not but there are times when I think they must, judging from the fine drives which whiz by my head."

Wings Must Share Fourth With Rangers

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Chicago's Blackhawks and the Detroit Red Wings struggled through 2½ periods of a slow National Hockey League game here before Cully Dahlstrom poked in a goal that gave the Hawks a 1 to 0 victory. Detroit's defeat, coupled with the fourth straight win by New York's Rangers, left the Wings sharing third place position with the Rangers.

BRUINS FACE CRUCIAL GAME IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Feb. 23—With the Garden sold out for over a week, the home of the Maple Leafs will be jammed to the very exits tomorrow night when Toronto and the Bruins clash in a game that may determine the National Hockey League champions for 1940-41.

The Bruins, two points behind and a game in hand, will be in a good spot to go on and retain that title if they can tie or whip the Leafs. A win for Snythe's gang will put them four points in front, a margin that may be great enough to carry them on through, even without Syl Apps.

There's no getting away from the fact that the loss of Apps is a terrific blow to Toronto. This big center, who was only four points away from Bill Cowley in the race for individual scoring honors has been flying this past month. He's a cinch to be named All-League center and might have edged Cowboy Bill in the scoring battle.

With Apps out the Leafs lose their great one-two punch, Apps and Drillon. The injury, a torn ligament, suffered in the game with the Americans last Tuesday night, will definitely keep him out of the seven remaining league games, but Toronto doctors hope to have him back for the playoffs.

MAY SPUR LEAFS ON

But with Apps out, the Bruins' outlook appears rosy.

The average fan and writer shares this view but Uncle Arthur Ross looks at it from a different light.

Just before boarding the train for Toronto with his squad last night, the Bruins' vice-president sized up the Apps situation in this manner:

"On the surface, it looks as though we're a cinch to coast in now that Apps is gone but I'm not so sure. This hockey is a funny game and there's no telling what's going to happen."

"Look at the Americans, battered and bruised with only half a squad tying the Leafs last Tuesday night. If the Americans can do that, there's no telling what the Leafs will do. After all they have a great squad and even though the loss of Apps will hurt they still have enough power to ice three lines that can do loads of damage."

ROSS LAUDS APPS

"Then, too, a team that loses a star often plays as good if not better hockey in the games with work just a bit harder and the team operates every bit as effectively."

"So, I'm not going to count the Leafs out—not on your life."

Art then went on to laud Apps.

"I'm really sorry to see Apps get that tough break," said Arthur. "Not only is he a great hockey player but he's a gentleman and liked by everybody around the circuit. It's a shame that he has to go at this time."

Five Lowell Boxers Fight On Amerk Card

Amateur leather tossers from Lowell are going to play a very prominent role in the 1941 New England A. A. U. Boxing Championships as evidenced by the large number of entries already on hand from the mill city on the Merrimack for next Monday night's tryout tourney at Boston Arena.

This show will be staged under the auspices of the Irish American A. A. as well as the third and final elimination which is to be offered on March 10.

Bouts will be staged in all eight classes at championship weights on Monday night and all entries must be made in writing and filed with Tom Kanaly at the Arena.

Among the Lowell entries already on file are James Lyman in the 118 pounds—Daniel Lawler and Francis Welch in the lightweight class—Gerald Callahan and Dave Andrews, the N. E. and Eastern All-America as well as Diamond Belt champion, in the 147 pounds and Tommy Hill in the middle-weight division.

Lowell boxers who have already qualified for the N. E. finals are Joseph Hebert, 112; John Connelan, 113; Steve Bomal, 135; James Taylor, 147; James Mulligan, 160 pounds.

Monday night's winners in all classes, as well as those of the March 10 show in addition to last Monday night's first place winners and the Massachusetts state champions, will clash in the New England finals at Boston Garden on March 17.

SKIER AIDED BY TOW HITS 91 MPH ON LEVEL

By TAP GOODENOUGH

SKI SPEEDSTERS! Greater speed may now be attained on the level than in running downhill. And this story is on the level; in fact, we're talking about a ski tow on the level.

Becoming bored with the monotony of taking the famous "Suicide 6" slope at Woodstock, N. H., straight, "Wild Man" Harry Hillman and other schuss fiends sought new thrills. So "Bunny" Bertram, Woodstock's first ski tow operator, ingeniously came to the fore with the new "Speed Tow."

One skier at a time grasps the tow idling at a mere 10 miles per hour, and then he is gradually stepped up to the desired speed. At a designated point he lets go the tow rope and skis along the level on momentum.

The tow is so constructed that it will run as fast as 100 miles an hour!

Last week-end Nancy Nye of Chestnut Hill, a daring lass, was clocked at 65 miles per hour! "Wendy" Morse, an intrepid young man from Trinity College, Hartford, was timed schussing at 91 m. p. h.

When this tow was first installed,

Nancy Nye Wendy Morse

it was so placed that the skier hit a slight rise or hummock after releasing the rope and was catapulted through the air. The winner of the Women's downhill at the recent Fisk Trophy Races, Henrietta Sharpe of Woodstock, jumped 42 feet in this manner.

The top speed attained by champions on major jumps is said to be about 70 miles an hour. If this new "Speed Tow" is set up to shoot a hickory hopper over the take-off, a new era in ski-aerodynamics is at hand.

This new phase of skiing may be only a craze, but the experts at Woodstock kept the tow working late in the evening under floodlights. The manufacturer is making plans for production of additional tows of this type which require special safety devices and involve new engineering problems. . . . We always knew the sport of skiing was on the level.

DOWNHILL DOINGS

Scheduled for the week-end are the 11th annual Hochgebirge Ski Club downhill and slalom team races for men, women and veterans (open) on the Teft Trail, Cannon Mountain. These are to be run in conjunction with the U. S. Eastern Amateur championships, making the meet the most important one ever to be held in the East. . . . To the Eastern downhill winner to be crowned tomorrow goes the John Sherburne Trophy. It is well to recall that John Sherburne was a member of the Hochgebirge team of 1933 which won for the first time its own Invitation Challenge Cup. Victory was gained at the last minute by Sherburne's lightning finish.

Youth will be served on skis tomorrow at the Belknap area in Gifford-Laconia, N. H., where the Eastern interscholastic championships are to be contested. Scores of high schools have entered, and Greater Boston will be represented by a team from Melrose High, winner at the Mt. Hood carnival.

Other events on the card include the annual Newfound Region race for men on Mt. Tecumseh; the Ski Day for juniors at Hanover; and a Class C downhill race on Mt. Moosilauke, sponsored by the Dartmouth Outing Club.

SKI SCRIBBLINGS

A real expert and ardent enthusiast is Loretta Moquin, one of the original members of the "35 Ski Club," who was seen skiing Cannon Mountain recently. . . . When the valley station at the Tramway is crowded, people often take the wrong skis in their rush to board the car. Last week, one woman arrived at the top of the mountain and discovered she had one long and one short ski. . . . Grace Moore, famous star of screen, stage and radio, may try singing on skis! She's staying at the Fraconia Lodge of Baron von Pantz.

Husky Sextet Plays Gymnasts

Northeastern's varsity hockey team nears the close of its season by playing Springfield tonight at the Arena. The Huskies have won five of their last seven games, the only two defeats were at the hands of Boston College.

Coach Herb Gallagher was pleased with the work of his team against the Eagles last Tuesday, even though four rapid-fire goals in the last five minutes made the game look one-sided.

Fred Cusack, who scored 22 points, and Bob Saumiegle will work on the first line with Capt. John Chipman. Herb Gallagher and Ronny McKinnon will be at the defense and Don Hamlin in goal.

Springfield has lost three games, won one and tied one, so the Huskies will be favored. Northeastern closes its season tomorrow night against Colby at the Arena.

New Odorless Mist Spray Kills Germs

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—A method of sterilizing air with an odorless, invisible germicidal mist was reported in the current issue of Science by a group of University of Chicago research physicians. They used a spray consisting of propylene glycol. The minute droplets retarded their effectiveness in destroying bacteria for an hour and a half, the investigators reported.

The new method of sterilizing air gave promise of reducing the spread of infections of the upper respiratory tract, such as pneumonia and the common cold.

Dr. Arthur C. Bachmeyer, associate director of the division of biological sciences, said that the mist might be of effective use in air mist shelters and barracks, as well as sickrooms and crowded meeting places.

Nephews Fight Dr. Porter Will

A petition for a jury trial on the will of the late Dr. Francis E. Porter, Newton surgeon who died last October 11, was allowed in Middlesex Probate Court today by Judge John C. Leggat.

The petition, alleging that Dr. Porter was over 90 when he drew up his will March 5, 1937, that he was deaf and was blind in one eye, was brought to two nephews, W. Damon Porter of Perkins st., Newton, and Edward F. Porter of Chicago.

Dr. Porter's will provided for minor bequests, but left almost half his $250,000 estate to Newton Hospital, a quarter to Newton Congregational Church, and the rest to the Centennial Methodist Church, Newton.

The petition alleged that Dr. Porter was not sufficiently sound mentally to draw up a will.

Wakefield Building Destroyed—Taken at the height of the spectacular, general-alarm fire which destroyed the Wakefield Supply Co. and a dress shop on Main st., Wakefield, today, photo shows fireman atop ladder directing the hose play. Hampered by huge billows of smoke which blanketed the business section of the city, firemen fought the blaze for three hours before bringing it under control. STORY ON PAGE 6
